GOODBYE, OLD FRIEND

Employees at the Sequoia Theater in Mill Valley pull down letters spelling "The Sting" and put up "Andy's Bride," making it absolutely authentic that the Robert Redford-Paul Newman movie has finally left town. For weeks Mill Valley residents have complained that six months of "The Sting" was too much and that the energy crisis was being increased by Mill Valley movie buffs driving out of town to catch other films, while out-of-towners were driving in to catch the show.

Study Hits Weakness In Marin Government

Consultant Favors Power For Barrows

By ERIK M. INGRAM

A consultant's report to the Marin County Grand Jury has concluded that county government — as it is presently run — is unable to measure the effectiveness of various programs and services.

As a result, the report said, the cost-benefit ratio of these services is not known, leaving decision makers such as county supervisors without adequate information to make needed changes.

"We conclude that Marin County's organizational structure is weak. It does not provide a framework for effective management, responsiveness and accountability."

Among various solutions, the report recommended the county administrator's office be given broader authority and more manpower to carry out its role as adviser to the board of supervisors. The administrator is John F. Barrows.

The lengthy document was prepared by the firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. of San Francisco, which used the consolidated health and human services department as a prime example of a decision based on inadequate information.

"In each case, the board of supervisors has endorsed a major change in county policy without identifying feasible alternatives and accurately estimating the benefits and costs of the alternatives considered," the report says.

"The health and human services' consolidation represents a decision which was made on the basis of inadequate information about the alternative, benefits and cost associated with consolidation."

notes that confusion and controversy has surrounded the new department ever since welfare, health, mental health and probation were lumped together.

(The probation department was subsequently removed from the "superagency" and pressure is mounting to separate mental health. Such action would, in effect, wipe out the umbrella department.)

Hiring of the firm by the grand jury created a furor earlier this year with supervisors refusing to allocate $21,000 to pay it.

The grand jury then skirted supervisors and obtained a court order for the funds from Judge E. Warren McGuire, presiding judge of Marin Superior Court.

Grand Jury Foreman F. Charles Ruegg said in a letter to McGuire today that the need for such a study arose when various jurors expressed concern over "the evident lack of accountability" in county government.

The firm's major findings include:

A lack of information in various departments about the public's need or desire for their services.

A lack of "publicly stated" goals and objectives by departments.

A lack of information on the full cost of services.

An inability of departments to measure the effectiveness of services.

Failure to relate staffing changes to the quality of services.

Deficiencies in county personnel procedures.

The shortcomings vary from department to department, in part due to "the fragmented nature of the county's top management with some department heads elected and others appointed, the report says.

The organizational structure of general law counties is outdated with authority being shared among supervisors and elected department heads, it says.

"The county administrator is given broad but vague management responsibilities," it continues. "During our review, few department heads agreed on the authorized role of the administrator and there was little certainty concerning which departments even reported to the administrator."

Tiburon's Party Tops Activities

The climax tomorrow of Tiburon's triple anniversary celebration — including two parades, a picnic, fire works, and a street dance with the Marin Banjo Band — highlights the weekend's activities in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties.

The first parade, featuring decorated bicycles, begins at 1 p.m. from Blackie's Pasture, near the intersection of Trestle Glen and Tiburon Boulevard. Prizes for the best dressed bicycles will be awarded when the entourage arrives at boardwalk shopping center.

At 2 p.m. a parade of floats, bands, and marching groups will begin at Mar West Street and Tiburon Boulevard.

At 4:30 p.m. there will be a community picnic at the Reed School.

Fireworks at 9 p.m. — set off from a barge on the bay — will signal the start of a street dance on Main Street with the Marin Banjo Band.

Other special events scheduled are:

TONIGHT

Chili dinner at the YWCA Firecracker Chili Feed, 6 to 9 p.m. at 1618 Mission Avenue in San Rafael.

Color slides of the Stanford Prison Experiment, 8 p.m. in Olney Hall at the College of Marin.

Play, "Silly Putty," San Francisco Repertory Company, 8:30 p.m., 1122 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

TOMORROW

Play, "The Drunkard," 8:30 p.m., 1122 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

SUNDAY

Bazaar and Bon Odori featuring Japanese food and dancing, karate and bonsai demonstrations, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Buddhist Temple of Marin, 390 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley.

Concert, with violinist Laurence Nelson and accompanist Barbara Baum performing works by Weber, Schoenberg, Adair and John Briggs, 7:30 p.m. at Angelico Hall at Dominican College.

SPECIAL SECTION SALUTES HOLIDAY

The special features information on events in the Twin Cities and bargains from local merchants. And the joint Fourth of July celebration has become a focus for countrywide Independence Day activities.

Consolidate Fire Districts: Jury

The outgoing Marin County Grand Jury today issued its final report, recommending more authority for the county administrator and consolidation of local fire departments, among other things. (Other grand jury stories, page 14.)

The lengthy document, which contains few surprises, includes a consultant's study of needed improvements so top management can evaluate programs and services offered by county government.

While the 19-member jury criticized the new health and human services department, it praised the public works department as "a leader among county departments in its efforts to establish modern management processes . . ."

Other sections of the report deal at length with criminal-justice, education and social services.

In the section prepared by the audit, finance and county offices committee, the Grand Jury said county supervisors should "extend the administrative authority" of County Administrator John F. Barrows.

It said his duties and responsibilities should then be clearly defined to help "alleviate the unrealistic workload of the supervisors."

Before making policy decisions, it continues, the board should require Barrows' office to provide "comprehensive information" on matters under review, including various options open to the board.

The lack of such information, its causes and results, is a major subject of the consultant's study.

The county offices committee also recommended hiring of a "grantsman" to bring more state and federal grants into the county and creation of a 24-hour central referral system to help residents find services from public and private agencies.

"There are a multitude of services currently available to citizens of Marin, but for a variety of reasons, including short-term residence of families, many persons do not know what services are available when a crisis occurs."

A more stringent system of determining a defendant's financial ability to hire legal defense should be set up by the public defenders office, the grand jury said. Currently, those using the office are required only to sign an affidavit that they cannot afford private counsel.

Also, county supervisors should "press strongly" for the state to pay its share of the cost of providing a public defender's office as well as full costs for defending San Quentin inmates.

The newly created auditorium, cultural and fairgrounds advisory board should be given "sufficient authority . . . to insure smooth operation of the facilities," it added.

Creation of the advisory board was recommended in an interim report highly critical of the operation of the veterans memorial building.

Elsewhere in the report, the grand jury reiterated past proposals that supervisors and the local agency formation commission move to create a coun-

Summit Principals Down To Hard Talks

MOSCOW (UPI) — President Nixon shook a few friendly Russian hands, paid a ceremonial pilgrimage, signed three agreements, and then — still in an atmosphere of jovial friendliness — knuckled down today to serious negotiations with Soviet leaders.

Communist party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev beamed and led the applause as Nixon signed a pact on cooperation in the area of energy technology with Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny and a housing agreement with Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Then Nixon and Brezhnev talked and joked between themselves as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko took up their felt-tip pens for a pact involving cooperation on artificial heart research.

Nixon shook Brezhnev's hand so firmly that the Soviet leader feigned pain, and then pretended to squeeze Nixon's hand in a bonecrusher grip. Both laughed.

The American President began his day with a traditional trip to lay a red, white and blue wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier, and lifted his own spirits with a bit of American-style campaigning on the way back.

When shouts of "peace, peace and friendship" were heard from about 1,000 citizens reaching over waist-high steel barricades near Red Square, a smiling Nixon abandoned his black limousine and waded into a five-minute handshaking session.

Then he was off, 15 minutes late, to a two-hour session with the Kremlin Big Three for what aides said was a a "frank" review of U.S. and Soviet policy.

The signing ceremony followed, and Brezhnev issued a statement saying "Frankly, this is only the first stage. There is much yet to be done, and it requires work and good will."

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said, "We feel the agreements signed today chart a concrete course for the future and contribute to the process of making detente ir-

New Team Selected To Work On Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A second team of legislative negotiators today began fashioning a compromise state budget after a bitterly divided Senate killed a proposed record $10.3 billion "pork barrel" spending plan.

As the Legislature prepared to recess for a month-long summer vacation, a second conference committee of three Senators and three Assemblymen met to put together an acceptable bill and speed it to Gov. Ronald Reagan who must sign a budget by midnight Sunday.

The second conference committee was named after the Senate, amidst charges that the first committee had larded the budget with "pork barrel" additions, rejected the original $10.3 billion plan last night on a bipartisan 14-22 vote, far short of the 27 needed for passage.

Casting a vote for the budget was Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Named to the new conference committee by Senate Leader James R. Mills, D-San Diego, were Democratic Sens. Anthony Beilenson of Los Angeles and Walter Stiern of Bakersfield and Republican Howard Way of Exeter. Assembly conferees were Democrats Kenneth Cory of Westminster and John Miller of Berkeley and Republican Ernest Mobley of Sanger.

Veteran Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said the Senate's action represented the first time in 15 years that a conference committee budget bill was killed.

The plan, as usual, constituted the biggest-in-the-nation state budget and totaled almost $1 billion more than the current

Mill Valley's Budget Up; Tax Down

The Mill Valley City Council last night adopted a 1974-75 budget of $3,171,168, up $240,544 from this year's spending.

City Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said that because of an 11.5 per cent increase in assessed valuation in the city, the new budget probably could be funded with a 30-cent cut in the tax rate from this year's $2.883 per $100 assessed valuation.

However, he said that the budget does not include any spending for cost-of-living pay increases for members of the Mill Valley Employees Association, which represents about half the city staff, nor for increases for management. Once these wage settlements are made later this summer, the tax rate picture could change, he said.

Several community groups won grants including $800 for the chamber of commerce, $1,400 for the city art commission, $500 for Survival Inc. and $2,400 for the founding of a city heritage library.

Other additions included: $7,-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Military Power

MONTEVIDEO (UPI) — President Juan Maria Bordaberry yesterday granted new powers to Uruguay's already influential military leaders in a move marking the first anniversary of the day he abrubtly shut the nation's congress.

Bordaberry spoke on radio and television after heavily armed troops took up strategic positions in Montevideo to prevent popular demonstrations against the anniversary of his military-backed one-man-rule government.

No incidents were reported.

Bordaberry said the military would participate in an economic and social advisory council and in the budget and planning office.

The armed forces were given extraordinary police and arrest powers in 1971 to help fight leftist Tupamaro guerrillas.

Reopen Highway

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government troops hurling hand grenades into rebel bunkers only 50 yards away today reopened a stretch of Highway 5 at Phume Khleang Sbek, 15 miles north of Phnom Penh. Both sides took heavy losses, field reporters said.

Fighting raged throughout the day at the town and at least five government soldiers were killed and 22 wounded, initial reports said. Rebel casualties were reported very heavy.

Government T28 fighter-bombers supported the troops along a three-mile front. Field reports said the Cambodian troops crawled on hands and knees to toss grenades into insurgent bunkers and foxholes.

Visas Granted

MOSCOW (UPI) — Visa authorities today told Jewish electrochemist Benjamin Levich, the highest-ranking Soviet scientist to apply to emigrate to Israel, he could leave by the end of 1975, his son Alex said.

Alex, 29, and his brother, astrophysicist Yevgeny, 26, were both called in yesterday and told they could leave by the end of this year with their wives.

Until now the Soviet position has been to deny high-ranking scientists the right to emigrate on the basis that they have either been involved in classified work or have too much technical knowledge.

There was no indication that the Levich case represented a change in policy. Rather it appeared to be an individual exemption.

Marcos Decrees Rebel Amnesty

Marcos

Vowing to end "senseless bloodshed," Marcos in a radio and television address also announced the appointment of Moslems to national and municipal government posts.

The amnesty makes good a promise for a pardon that Marcos gave in a speech June 12, the Philippine independence day.

A high military commander said the latest outbreak of fighting between Moslems and government troops entered its ninth day today in the province of Cotabato, 500 miles south of Manila, although on a reduced scale.

Official sources said this month's clashes have already claimed the lives of more than 200 insurgents.

Korean Sea Battle

SEOUL (UPI) — Three North Korean gunboats attacked and sank a 200-ton South Korean police patrol vessel today in a battle in the Sea of Japan, a South Korean military spokesman reported. North Korea said it captured several crewmen.

The South Korean spokesman said air force fighter planes and navy vessels rushed to the scene after radio contact with the boat was lost but bad weather hampered rescue and search operations.

The two countries blamed each other for provoking the sea battle. South Korea said its boat was south of the military demarcation line that extends east into the sea. North Korea said the boat was north of the line.

Body Returned

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese soldiers today turned over the remains of an unidentified American pilot killed in a plane crash six years ago to U.S. officials at a ceremony boycotted by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

The leaders of the U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations to the Joint Military team attended the simple ceremony at Da Nang airport along with military officials from both countries, but Viet Cong and North Vietnamese delegates spurned an invitation, a U.S. spokesman said.

Col. William Tombaugh, chief U.S. delegate to the JMT, said at the presentation that it "should provide additional evidence to the world that — notwithstanding any and all of the DRV's (North Vietnam) efforts to frustrate this humanitarian work —the work will go on."

Beagle Plan Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army has "suspended" its plans to buy beagle pups for use in tests of nerve gas and poisons and has launched a search for a substitute animal, pentagon sources said.

Military and nonmilitary doctors had contended the beagles were absolutely essential in toxicology, the study of poisons. They said the dog's reactions correspond to humans and that science had accumulated "baseline data" on beagle reactions needed to compare the results of continuing tests.

A Safe Arrival

LONDON (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Itzhak Rabin arrived safely today at a London airport so choked with troops and security forces that a visiting president had trouble finding a place to park his car.

An estimated 1,000 troops and police, backed by armored cars and helicopters in Britain's biggest security operation since World War II, blanketed Heathrow Airport, London's major air terminal, for Rabin's arrival.

Security sources had said there was a 50-50 chance of a guerrilla attack, either on Rabin or other Socialist politicians arriving for a weekend meeting of the Socialist International.

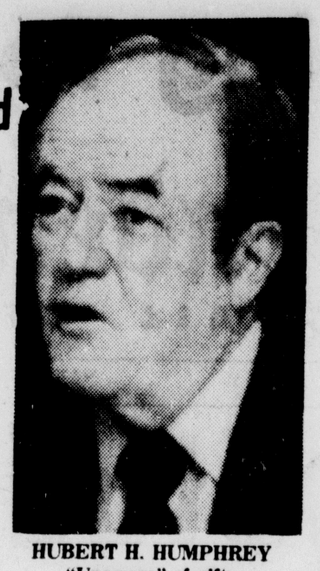
Illegal Gift Report Denied By Humphrey



HUBERT H. HUMPHREY
"Unaware" of gifts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., says if any corporations contributed illegally to his 1972 presidential bid he "was unaware of it."

The former vice president and 1968 Democratic presidential nominee was accused along with Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of accepting illegal corporate gifts in a draft report prepared for the Senate Watergate Committee. The report also said both their campaign managers invoked the 5th Amendment to avoid testifying.

"I have not seen this draft report, but according to information made public by the press it is filled with innuendos and inaccuracies," Humphrey said in a two-page statement yesterday.

Humphrey said he had not cooperated with the Watergate Committee's investigation of an alleged $25,000 donation from the Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI) because he did not know about the gift.

He said his personal expenditures during his try for the 1972 nomination came from a trust fund he established in 1965.

The report charged that Jack Chestnut, Humphrey's former campaign manager, destroyed the campaign's financial records for the period before April 7, 1972, when a new full disclosure law went into effect.

The report charged that Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Inc. (3M) illegally contributed $1,000 to Humphrey in corporate funds channeled through a consultant in Europe.

Humphrey said he received 10 checks of $100 each from individuals, and "if these individuals were reimbursed with corporate funds, I was not aware of it."

Humphrey also said his office had provided more than 200 documents requested by the committee.

Auto Makers Rap Child's Seat Rules

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. has joined General Motors in questioning the practicality of a government safety standard both claim will make child car safety devices so cumbersome they won't be purchased or used by parents.

In response to a proposed standard by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), the automakers say the child seats they now offer will have to be taken off the market. If a replacement can be developed, it may be too difficult to use or too expensive, they claim.

"Child injuries and fatalities today are primarily due to the limited use of the restraint systems available," John C. Eckhold, director of Ford's automotive safety office, said yesterday. "If a child restraint device could be developed which would meet the requirements of the NHTSA proposal, it may very well be unacceptable to both children and parents."

Last year, 1,000 children under age 5 died in auto crashes while 155,000 suffered significant injuries.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Oh nothing much – persuading, inspiring, spending, innovating, investing, planning, revising, detailing, organizing, and arranging – what have you been up to?"

Old Knee Injury Slows Campaign

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Gov. Philip W. Noel is worried that he might need an operation on an old knee injury, before or during the upcoming primary elections.

"I can't walk normally, and it's beginning to concern me," he said. He reinjured the knee while marching in a St. Patrick's Day parade. "Trying to play tennis on it was a mistake too," the athletic governor said.

"If I have the operation before the elections it could hurt the campaigning, and if I wait, the knee could become more damaged," he said.

Oil Empire's Investors Ignorant?

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Investors who lost $100 million in a drilling company suspected of fraud probably knew nothing about the oil business, according to auditors who examined the books of the bankrupt Home-Stake Production Co.

Auditors of the firm Coopers & Lybrand said most of the investors, who included prominent businessmen and show business personalities, were not from oil-producing areas.

Wall Street analysts said Home-Stake, which attracted $130 million in investments in nine years but declared bankruptcy in 1973 with less than $19 million in assets and unknown debts, was a casebook lesson in crowd psychology.

"There was a phenomenal lure in the substantial returns the early investors received on their first lay-outs to Home-Stake," a Wall Street broker said.

From 1966 to 1969 investors received not only instant tax write-offs but dividends as well. But the dividends from the sums procured from subsequent investors. The potential of huge profits dulled appetites for a fast return.

Determined Escaper Eludes Quentin Hunt

Determined escape artist Neil Edward Darrow has made it outside San Quentin, prison officials confirmed today.

Darrow, a convicted wife slayer from Sacramento County, was last seen about 1 p.m. June 12 in the maximum security area where he was housed because of his past escape attempts.

He was missed at a 3 p.m. check, apparently having disappeared during an exercise period.

For several days, officials searched nooks and crannies in the old prison, believing Darrow was still hiding within the walls.

"But late last week we had word from the outside that he had made it out," William D. Nyberg, prison information officer, said today.

Darrow, 26, is a jewelry maker by trade. He was convicted last year of first degree murder after he shot his wife, Margaret, during a quarrel at a Sacramento hospital.

During his trial he produced what appeared to be a gun and ordered everyone in the courtroom to the floor. A bailiff fired a warning shot and Darrow was overpowered by deputies.

The "gun" turned out to be made of rolled up magazines.

In another escape attempt in Sacramento, Darrow overpowered a guard at the county jail and made it to the roof of the building before shots were fired and he surrendered.

Darrow was taken to the California Medical Facility at Vacaville after he was sentenced to prison. There he used the identification card of another inmate employed at an outside work project and escaped the prison for a few hours.

Farm Workers File Big Suit

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — The United Farm Workers union has filed an $11 million damage suit against the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

The suit, filed yesterday in San Mateo County Superior Court, claimed that Teamsters attacked men and women UFW pickets on farmland belonging to the John J. Kovacevich Co. in Kern County on June 28, 1973.

The suit contends that an agent of Kovacevich Co. incited the Teamsters to attack the picketing farm workers with guns, knives, chairs, clubs, pieces of pipe and brass knuckles.

Study Hits Weakness In Marin Government

cies in Marin County believe that there should be no expansion of the executive function and that the part-time board should provide all leadership, we believe that the county has outgrown this structure."

At one point, the document urges county supervisors to appoint a "citizens' charter commission" to study restructuring county government. It stops short of a full recommendation that the county change from a general law county to a charter county, which would require a vote of the people.

To correct the various "management deficiencies," the firm recommends several incentives to department heads, such as requiring them to document how well services are provided before new funds are budgeted.

Funds are currently allocated on the basis of departmental workload with little or no consideration given to the quality of the services, it said.

"The budget in Marin County is not based on an evaluation of the prior year's accomplishments," and consequently, alternative methods of providing services are not considered. . ."

The report says that during preliminary budget hearings with the county administrator, some departments were unable to discuss what changes would result from additional funding or whether there was even a need.

It recommends the county administrator's office be expanded to include staff to evaluate the quantity and quality of services provided by various departments.

Until programs and services are "planned, measured nad reported," it concludes, there will be a lack of accountability by county government.

The document then deals at length with changes in internal operations in order to achieve "accountability."

The report, which does not provide a department-by-department breakdown of shortcomings, was forwarded to county supervisors today.

Ehrlichman Prosecution States Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opening its conspiracy case against John D. Ehrlichman and three codefendants, the prosecution said today it would prove the Ellsberg break-in was a "willful, arrogant act" by a band of White House agents who "felt they were above the law."

William H. Merrill, a member of the team of Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, made a lengthy, low-key opening statement to a federal court jury impaneled yesterday to try Ehrlichman, former top aide to President Nixon, and the other men accused in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist in 1971.

Mapping out the case he intends to pursue, Merrill said: "We will show this was the willful arrogant act of men who took the law into their own hands because they felt they were above the law."

Ehrlichman, Nixon's chief domestic adviser at the time of the burglary aimed at getting information about the Pentagon Papers defendant, listened intently but showed no emotion as Merrill painstakingly detailed a series of White House meetings and memos preceding the break-in.

JURY

tywide fire district.

It also suggested establishing joint powers agreements among all the county's 18 fire districts "to provide maximum protection at minimum cost."

"As a first step, the county's mutual aid fire protection program should be strengthened with mutually acceptable 'written' agreements," it continues.

The jury said improved fire protection to unincorporated neighborhoods around cities has been recommended by every grand jury since 1966.

The fire truck at the county airport, it continues, should be equipped with foam equipment and its "indiscriminate use" should be discontinued with the addition of a small utility vehicle.

Other major recommendations call for new state law to force mobile homes to meet health and safety standards of other dwellings, development of a new parks and recreation master plan and support of a proposed regional planning agency.

Supervisors, who have declined to support the regional agency, should take the lead in its creation since what happens elsewhere in the Bay Area has an impact on Marin, the jury said.

In the section dealing with the public works department, the jury recommended that contracts with architects, engineers and construction firms be revised to "clearly define" responsibility and liability for projects.

It cited last year's auditorium parking lot fiasco in which delays were caused by a number of construction problems. No one was held responsible.

A number of the report's recommendations already have been acted upon by supervisors.

The jury recommended the county resolve its differences with San Rafael over mutual aid fire protection, saying "no visible progress" has been made. The city and county patched up their differences several weeks ago on condition unincorporated area residents near the city place a fire protection measure on the November ballot.

The jury recommended another accountant for the auditor-controller's office. One was added two weeks ago during budget hearings.

The jury recommended low-cost loans to dairymen to help meet state antipollution requirements. Such a program was approved last week during budget hearings.

It also recommended consolidation of local sanitary and water districts.

NIXON

Almost immediately Nixon and Brezhnev returned to negotiations which were said to be laying the groundwork for later vital talks on halting the nuclear arms race.

The first agreements of this so-called "third summit" followed up pacts engineered during the two previous Nixon-Brezhnev meetings and were completed at a lower level before the current visit. They provide for:

Cooperation in developing technology to find, mine, develop and process such fossil fuels as oil, shale, natural gas and coal. There will also be a swap of technology on solar, geothermal and synthetic fuels and an exchange of scientists and specialists. It is a five-year agreement.

Cooperation in developing ways to improve housing, develop new modes of living and even constructing new settlements, especially in earthquake-prone areas and extremely hot and cold climates. A five-year pact.

Joint research on the development of an artificial heart, the development of instruments to detect heart disease and the extension of the life of cardiac pacemakers. A three-year accord.

The 15-minute signing ceremony was carried to the Russian people from the gold-domed St. Vladimir Hall in the Kremlin via nationwide television.

The aura of friendship and cordiality that became evident the moment Nixon landed yesterday showed no sign of abating during the day Friday.

It was evident from the beginning of the day, Nixon's first full one in the Soviet capital, that each side was putting its best foot forward.

Nixon was properly solemn when he placed the rose, carnation and lily wreath at the memorial to the Soviet war dead, including 20 million in World War II.

The crowd which applauded and cheered him and then all but engulfed him outside the Kremlin gave him a visible lift with exhortations such as "please come more often, Mr. President," or "Peace is very important."

"For everybody," he answered. "The whole world, the Russian people and the American people."

Brezhnev bantered with American newsmen while waiting for the crowd-delayed Nixon, then greeted him with a smile, a handshake and the question: "Did you have time for breakfast?"

A Soviet statement described the talks as being held "in an atmosphere of frankness and without any secret agreements."

Ziegler said the morning discussions gave each leader an opportunity to explain his country's stance so that, beginning Saturday, the talks could get down to the specifics of such issues as arms limitation.

Nixon's Side Failing To Sway Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair is completing his presentation of Nixon's impeachment defense case today, but there's no sign that he has won any converts or changed any minds.

The Democrats on the House Judiciary Committee called the St. Clair case unpersuasive — and, in some instances, uninformed.

The Republicans generally called it fair —but short of new facts that would establish as indisputable Nixon's innocence of wrongdoing.

St. Clair, in his closed-door statements, focused on one of the most serious charges against Nixon —that he authorized the $75,000 payment of hush money to E. Howard Hunt on March 21, 1973.

Today, wrapping up Nixon's defense, he will discuss allegations in the $2 million dairy pledge, the Ellsberg break-in, the wiretap against newsmen and officials and the $432,787 underpayment of Nixon's taxes.

"St. Clair's presentation wasn't written for the committee, it was written for the press," Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., told reporters. "It was filled with little distortions you'll love to print."

But Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., argued that the presentation demonstrated shortcomings in the evidence the committee's own lawyers — John M. Doar, Democratic counsel, and Albert E. Jenner, Republican counsel —had offered.

He said Doar and Jenner had failed to tell that John W. Dean III "under oath" before the Senate Watergate committee had testified that the question of meeting Hunt's demand for hush money was "left hanging" after his March 21 meeting with Nixon.

St. Clair apparently felt that if he could weaken suspicions about the President's role in the Hunt payment he would have attacked the most damaging issue against Nixon. Some Republicans call it the only charge that gives them trouble.

Rep. David Dennis, R-Ind., called St. Clair's performance "effective, professional," But Rep. M. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., said he could not characterize it as "effective" or "persuasive."

STATE

spending program. Additionally, it represented almost $500 for every man, woman and child in California.

Mills said it would take only a short while for the new committee to iron out problems in the budget, simply by deleting items which opponents had labeled "objectionable." He said another vote would be taken later in the day.

Opponents were disgruntled generally by $180 million the first committee added to budget versions passed by the Assembly and Senate. Their bitterest complaints centered on $69 million worth of beach and park projects.

In a devastating point-by-point attack on the proposal, Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Oakland, accused the committee of going around the normal legislative process and asserted that members had directed the biggest additions toward projects in their own districts.

Holmdahl protested that a disproportionate amount of the new park projects—one-third in a list of $41 million worth—were located in the district of Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, chairman of the conference committee and the dean of the legislature.

Also criticized by Holmdahl was the last-second addition of $6.3 million scattered in the budget by the conference committee's No. 2 man, Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, for a marina near Candlestick Park in San Francisco. The area, Brown has said, is not actually in his district.

Another critic, Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, a Democrat from Watts, charged that "urban areas, such as I live in, never get any pork in the barrel."

Collier, a legislative powerhouse who is accustomed to getting things his way, denied any attemt "to bring something late and thrust it down your throats." He left quitely but shaken after the vote.

The two other senators on his committee were Democrat Alfred Alquist of San Jose, who voted "yes," and Republican Fred W. Marler Jr. of Redding, who voted "no."

The margin of defeat differed little from an initial 13-20 vote which was taken at 6 p.m. A dinner break and three hours of intense lobbying on the floor failed to budge the opposition.

Shops Center Impact Report Is Approved

A draft environmental impact report for a proposal for a huge regional shopping center was accepted last night by the Rohnert Park Planning Commission.

Although the report cited the possibility of traffic congestion from commercial development of the 275 acres on either side of the Rohnert Park Expressway-Highway 101 interchange, the commission determined that the center's benefits outweigh any problems it might cause.

The development is the project of Codding Enterprises of Santa Rosa and Cofego Enterprises of Rohnert Park. The two firms own most of the land, which is now largely vacant.

Planning secretary Sandra Faus said the commission recommended the city council rezone about 12 acres from agricultural to regional commercial and professional-administrative.

The parcel, at the southeast corner of Hunter Drive and Commerce Boulevard, is to be the site of a McDonald's hamburger stand.

The commission told the developers that rezoning of the balance of their property would require more time because the general plan must be amended to allow the commercial development. The plan presently calls for holding the land for agricultural use.

The environmental impact report on the proposal, first introduced before the planning commission June 13, came under heavy fire from the Santa Rosa Urban Renewal Agency, whose attorney Joseph Coomes charged that the report did not sufficiently consider the development's effect on nearby cities. The renewal agency is planning a large shopping center of its own in Santa Rosa, 10 miles north of Rohnert Park.

Similar complaints were voiced by Petaluma Planning Director Frank B. Gray, who said the center's impact report failed to consider the effect on commercial activity in other Southern Sonoma cities.

Gray pointed out in a letter to Rohnert Park authorities that the proposed center surely will slow Petaluma's commercial development, because the Rohnert Park center is to be far larger than the city's 11,000 residents would require.

The developers of the regional center presented the planning commission with a rough outline of their plans, which include retail stores, professional offices and apartments.

They set no timetable for the project although they said it would be built in phases over a period of years.

The planning commission also found that an elementary school and training center for the mentally retarded, proposed for the city's El Colegio section would have no adverse environmental impact.

Younger Grand Jury Empaneled

The 1974-75 Marin County Grand Jury, its members averaging five years younger than their predecessors and numbering one black among them, was empaneled today.

The 19-member panel is the result of the most extensive recruiting drive for a grand jury in Marin's history. A computer was used to cut the 347 applicants to 30 for today's random drawing.

The 13 men and six women average 48 years old, five years younger than the 1973-74 panel's average of 53 years.

Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire first thanked members of the outgoing grand jury and passed out certificates.

Then he swore in the new jurors, cautioning them that their "proceedings are required to be kept secret."

Failure to do so, said McGuire, would "not only constitute a violation of your oath but also a violation of the law. You must keep your deliberations confidential," he warned.

McGuire then named Terence V. McLoughlin, 43, a Tiburon certified public accountant, foreman.

Two black men were among the 30 nominees, but only one was chosen from a drum by county Clerk George H. Gnoss. He is Manford Chandler, 42, of San Rafael, executive director of the Marin City Boys Club.

Other jurors are six San Rafael residents: Charles P. Carle, 40, a chemical engineer; Robert H. Caro, 32, a real estate broker; Katherine M. Daly, 58, a housewife; Charles E. Neal, 64, an engineer's assistant; Gary L. Rifkind, 37, a pharmacist, and Joseph E. Saccone, 60, co-owner of United Markets.

Also, Mill Valley residents Noah Adair, 65, a retired naval officer; Frederick E. Lucas, 62, a retired school superintendent, and Richard J. Lyons, 29, a bottler; Woodacre housewives Susan M. Bowers, 29, and Susan M. Fruncillo, 28; writer Herbert H. Nienstedt, 48, and housewife Phyllis O. Thompson, 48, both of Corte Madera.

In addition, Tiburon housewife Sally Champe, 34; Josephine C. Ingram, 53, a Belvedere housewife; a retired Novato laundry driver, Kenneth Loer, 63, and a retired consulting engineer from Greenbrae, Erik Rettig, 75.

000 for relocating practice courts at Boyle Park to make room for building two new tennis courts; $1,000 towards a Scot Valley mini park; $500 for more recreation supervision at the Middle School gym; $1,500 for hazardous tree removal; $3,725 for building a topographical model of the city to install in the city council chambers once they are remodeled, and $228 for a school crossing guard for park school.

About $6,500 was deleted from street maintenance which would have been used for installing thermo plastic crosswalks.

Span Board Acts To Take Ferry Site

Golden Gate Bridge District directors today moved to condemn property owned by the City of Sausalito for a temporary downtown ferry terminal to handle the bridge district's new 750-passenger boats.

On an 11-to-1 vote, with San Francisco director Robert Gonzales opposed, directors told attorney Thomas Jenkins to prepare legal papers to take the land under "public necessity" if Sausalito continues to resist construction of the temporary facility.

They also voted 13-to-2 to file a declaration that the temporary facility would have no significant impact on the environment.

They did so over objections contained in a letter from Sausalito Mayor Evert H. Heynneman, asking the district to repudiate the negative declaration because it is misleading.

Fire Budget Up $42,332 In Tiburon

The Tiburon Fire Protection District board has adopted a 1974-75 budget of $345,413, up $42,332 from this year's, according to Tiburon Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher.

A tax rate to go with the budget adopted Wednesday has not yet been set. This year's rate was 75 cents per $100 assessed valuation. However, Buscher said that state law would permit a two-cent increase in the rate, if necessary, because the district had a 77-cent rate in 1972-73.

Salaries for next year will be $276,361, compared to $238,327 this year. This amount includes an 8 per cent cost-of-living raise for employees and provides for edtra extra to make up for a federally mandated cut in the number of hours per week which firemen can work.

As of Jan. 1, they can work no more than 60 hours per week. At present Tiburon firemen have a 63.5 hour work week.

Maintenance would be $42,062, compared to $34,000 this year. Capital outlay would total $26,490, including two fire truck payments and funds for hydrants, a portable pump and for converting one district station from a septic tank to a sewer line. This year's capital outlay was $30,666.

All Ends Happily In Bizarre Kidnap Story

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Hi, mommy," cried 5-year-old Karen Huber, bursting into tears and ending Mary Ann Huber's seven-month hunt for her daugtter, a misplaced kidnap victim.

Karen was kidnaped in Los Angeles last year, and although she wasn't reunited with her mother until yesterday, it turned out she had actually been recovered by police in San Diego in January.

At the time, it was thought she was the daughter of her alleged kidnaper.

A San Diego policewoman and a Los Angeles juvenile detail sergeant finally put together the pieces that led to Karen's recovery from a foster home.

"I had never given up hope that I would see her again," said Mrs. Huber, a divorcee. "Deep down I knew she was all right because I knew no one could hurt someone so sweet and loveable."

Karen was found because of the arrest in San Diego last week of Jack Clifton Sharp, 45, a convicted child molester, for the alleged kidnaping of another little girl, Michelle Becher, 4.

Michelle disappeared from near her home in Long Beach on June 17.

She was found last Friday in San Diego by police, acting on a tip from the landlady of a rooming house where Sharp lived, who did not believe his story that the girl was his daughter.

Police arrested Sharp on charges of child stealing and child molestation.

The landlady said he had another "daughter" there for about five weeks in December. She knew Sharp as William Knapp.

The remark was seen in a news story by Los Angeles juvenile detail Sgt. Harry Gilpin.

He was struck by the resemblance of the Becher girl —a pretty, blue-eyed blonde — to Karen Huber, who disappeared Nov. 13 from a kindergarten school grounds.

Meanwhile, San Diego policewoman Lyan Donnelly was working the case from the other end —wondering whether a girl listed in San Diego files as "Karen Knapp" was really Knapp's daughter.

Sharp was arrested under the Knapp alias in January for car theft. He told police the little girl with him —who called him "daddy" —was his daughter.

The little girl was put in a children's home. She said she was Karen Knapp. When Sharp was arrested again for child molesting, Karen was made a ward of the court, put up for adoption and placed in a foster home.

That was where she was when the investigations by Gilpin and policewoman Donnelly came together Wednesday and they began wondering whether the accused kidnaper's "daughter" and the log missing kidnap victim were not the same girl.

Gilpin called Mrs. Huber Wednesday night and told her he would drive her to San Diego yesterday to meet a girl he suspected was her missing daughter.

Gilpin said Karen had been "intimidated and brainwashed" by Sharp to give her name as Karen Knapp.

REUNITED — Karen Joyce Huber, 5, receives an embrace from her mother, Mary Ann Huber, at a Los Angeles police station. They were reunited yesterday — seven months after the little girl disappeared from her Los Angeles home in a bizarre kidnapping-foster home story.

Antismoking Ads Scare Poorly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scare commercials threatening smokers with death sooner or later apparently have little impact on more educated persons, according to a study made by Alan A. Berman of the American University in Washington, D.C.

The magazine Psychology Today reported that Berman had five questionnaires — ministered to 300 students average age, 22 in an effort to determine their smoking habits and attitudes toward death. Berman found the more educated smoked more often than those with less schooling and rationalized their habit as an act of defiance.

"Berman concluded that scare commercials threatening people with death at some indefinite future time wasn't the way to stop people from smoking," Psychology Today noted. "Fear of cancer made many try to quit, but wasn't enough to keep them off cigarettes permanently. Any program to stop smoking, he believes, must expect some backsliding and allow for it.

PACIFIC STEREO'S 50th GRAND OPENING

Our New San Jose Store Stands Revealed Today at 4:30PM

Z-Z-ZIP! It's out in the open now, folks: Pacific Stereo's 50th store opens today in San Jose. As usual, we're going ALL THE WAY with positively indecent prices on music systems and stereo gear. That includes mouth watering savings on cassette decks and headphones, and a system for $399 that features the renowned Advent speakers. So don't be shy, stop by this week and help us celebrate; it's not every day we have a Grand Opening like this one!

This System Delivers, Au Naturel!

We think the Smaller Advent Loudspeakers are one of the best speaker values around (only $158 the pair). They reproduce a natural balance of sounds, with no coloration, and offer high quality translation at every point within audible range. To complement the Advents and provide them with the power they need for peak performance, we've chosen the Sherwood 7100A stereo receiver with a solid 44 watts (RMS @ 1 kHz) and an excellent AM/FM tuner section. No matter how good your speakers and your receiver are, they can't make up for scratchy, damaged records. That's why we're including the reliable Garrard 40B record player. It has cueing and anti-skate controls and comes equipped with a base and an Empire elliptical cartridge. Drop by Pacific Stereo and hear this system bare its soul; chances are you'll fall in love with it.

NEW COLLEGE PRESIDENT

Diamond Predicts Stress On Jobs

By BILL ROBERTS

Irwin P. (Red) Diamond has been a part of the College of Marin for 27 of its 48 years. And upon being named president of the Kentfield campus this month, he drew on his long association with the school and predicted a new emphasis on two-year programs which prepare students for jobs.

The college will maintain its strong program of preparing students to move on to four-year academic institutions, he told the Independent-Journal yesterday. "But this is an older type population . . . not the typical college-type population we knew a few years ago. There is more concern for jobs as a result of two-year programs," he said.

When Diamond came to the college as a physical education teacher in 1947 a shift was occurring away from the job-preparatory programs which had been the major purpose since its beginning. More students wanted to attend four-year colleges than the colleges could accept, so many entered the two-year junior colleges, as they were then known, to mark time.

That required more emphasis by the community colleges on transfer programs at the expense of job-oriented programs.

Now, however, there is a higher percentage of older persons at the college seeking to change job fields through more education, more women seeking an education to allow them to be competitive in the job market and more minority group students, according to Diamond. All combine to require new emphasis on job-preparatory courses and demanding new teaching methods, he said.

To begin developing programs for the new type student, Diamond said, he will confer with department heads and individual faculty members.

He plans to ask trustees for more money to test such programs. He said $10,000 for that is included in the tentative budget now before college trustees but he hopes to get the sum doubled before the budget is adopted in August.

He also sees a need for more outdoor classes as a result of students' "concerns over conservation, nature and the effect of the automobile." To meet that need, he will push for new classes and expanding existing ones which focus on the outdoors.

Diamond is no stranger to innovation, and among his achievements was a program to help students with reading problems, a program that has become the college's popular communications department with a full range of classes.

He has also been a strong supporter of community services programs, another activity he hopes to expand. He organized the popular concert-lecture series at the college.

In 1947, his first year, he put the College of Marin in the national spotlight by coaching the basketball team to the national junior college basketball championship.

He became athletic director in 1955, director of guidance in 1956 and dean of students in 1960. In 1967, he sought the college presidency (then combined with the job of superintendent) after serving as acting president for a year but was passed over.

Through the years, he has seen the campus grow from a few drab buildings along the banks of Corte Madera Creek to a well-landscaped 78-acre campus. It now boasts a fine arts theater that is one of the nation's finest for a college, a new library and modern classrooms for science courses and a nursing program.

The college's steady growth under a multimillion-dollar building program has also meant more and more duties for its presidents who also served as Marin Community College District superintendents.

As a result, district trustees earlier this year split the positions, retained Dr. John A. Grasham as district superintendent and named Diamond president of the Kentfield campus. The Novato campus is headed by its own president, Ernest H. Berg.

Diamond will be the head of the college governance system made up of many faculty and student committees, prepare the college budget for district trustees, direct all campus personnel and serve as go-between for faculty, students and trustees.

Without having to assume the duties of district superintendent, Diamond predicted he will be better able to serve the college he has known intimately since 1947. "I will be freer to direct my interests more inwardly toward the college," he said.

Before coming to the college, Diamond taught on the high school level for a short time and was a platoon leader in the Phillipine Islands during World War II.

He was born in Oakland and holds a bachelor's degree in physical education and speech and a master's degree in higher education from the University of California at Berkeley.

He lives at 30 Ichabod Court in Sleepy Hollow with his wife, Eva. The couple has four children, Robert, 26, Joan, 23, Andrea, 22, and Carol, 14.

They are also guardians for Michael Raynes, 17, and Susan Raynes, 15, who have lived with the Diamonds since their father, a College of Marin instructor, died in 1971. Their mother had died earlier.

NEW PRESIDENT — Reflecting on 27 years service at the College of Marin and crystal-balling the years ahead, new college President Irwin P. (Red) Diamond predicts a new emphasis at the college on two-year courses which lead directly to a job. Diamond this month was named the college's sixth president in its 48-year history.

Nurses Vote To Return To Work

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Striking nurses have voted overwhelmingly to return to work today at 41 private hospitals and clinics in Northern California.

Members of the California Nurses Association last night ratified a two-year contract which sets a staffing policy in special units at the facilities from Sacramento to San Jose.

Hospitals were crippled by the strike. Nursing staffs were reduced to a minimum agreed to by the strikers before the June 7 walkout.

Neither the nurses nor the three hospital groups claimed victory, but the nurses were granted concessions in the staffing of such areas as coronary, burn and intensive care units.

Hospitals said such a move would infringe on the authority of doctors and administrators.

CNA members said after the vote that the new pact was "a stepping stone" to more control over placement of nurses special units.

The nurses were granted $60-a-month pay increase retr active to Jan. 1. They will al receive another $40 a mon July 1. The contract raised top scale nurse's salary to nea ly $1,100 a month.

The pact also liberalize week-end off policy with weekends a year. The numbe before was 17.

Proposed Weight Labels Seen Hurting Customers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Proposed federal regulations regarding weight labeling of meat and poultry products could result in California consumers being "short-weighted" at the supermarket, the state's top agriculture official said yesterday.

C. Brunel Christensen, state agriculture director, said the regulations would prevent states from removing short-weight packages from sale in their jurisdictions.

"The concept that the weight labels on packages be accurate only at the time the contents are packed at USDA inspected plants and that no state may apply its own standards might be of benefit to packers," Christensen said.

"But it would cost American wholesalers, retailers and consumers serious losses in short weight meat and poultry products."

It would cost California consumers millions of dollars alone, Christensen added.

Christensen said the regulations were being considered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In letters to the House and Senate Agriculture Committees in Washington, D.C., Christensen said the proposed weight concept "makes no provision for losses of moisture from the product between the time it is packed and the time it is shipped and sold."

Why should the consumer, Christensen asked, 'have to pay for 16 ounces of a product when it may actuall weigh several ounces less at the counter?"

For years California has been applying its own standards to meat, removing underweight packages from stores, he said.

Admiral Is Cleared In Senate Inquiry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has concluded that Adm. Thomas H. Moorer did "nothing improper" in connection with an alleged military spying operation in the White House in 1971, according to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., committee chairman. Stennis issued the committee's finding yesterday following an investigtion by the committee of allegations that top-secret documents were stolen from the National Security Council and delivered to Moorer, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Brown Asks Limit To Campaigning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Edmund G. Brown Jr., Democratic nominee for governor, yesterday proposed that he and his Republican rival, Houston Flournoy, eliminate paid radio and television commercials from their campaigns.

"In recent years politics has been corrupted by the use of slick television and radio commercials which ignore the issues and sell candidates like bars of soap," said Brown, the secretary of state.

Instead of television commercials, both candidates could engage in debates and joint appearances, Brown told a news conference.

A campaign spokesman for Flournoy, the state controller, said there would be no immediate comment.

"If Mr. Flournoy agrees to my proposal to substitute a series of debates for paid radio and television commercials, I believe we can set a bold new precedent for American politics," Brown said.

"The voters will be able to better compare the two candidates and the candidates will be freed from the burden of raising enormous sums to purchase radio and television commercials," he said.

Both candidates already have agreed to limit their campaign spending in accordance with provisions of Proposition 9, the political reform act approved by voters but which doesn't go into effect until 1975. It limits each to about $1.3 million in spending.

Brown said the joint appearances should begin shortly after Labor Day and continue until the election at the rate of approximately one every 10 days.

Thirty-second TV commercials, Brown said, "often convey no information and force candidates to resort to slogans and catchy phrases.

"I think we can do much better. I believe the voters want to hear how we stand on the issues. They want to compare us and make an informed decision."

He said several television stations already have "indicated their willingness" to broadcast debates and "I believe even more stations will make time available if Mr. Flournoy and I jointly ask them."

Thief Gets Last Word Despite Victim's Action

MIAMI (UPI) — Juan Adan managed to save his television set, and if he hadn't tried to immobilize the thieves' getaway car he might have kept his wallet.

He went inside the house and found his television set and other valuables stacked near the door.

Adan walked back outside, snatched the keys from the Volkswagen's ignition, and walked back inside to call police.

The woman and a male companion followed Adan into the house, wrestled away the car keys, beat Adan, stole his wallet, and fled in the auto, abandoning the rest of the loot.

NEW COLLEGE PRESIDENT

Diamond Predicts Stress On Jobs

By BILL ROBERTS

Irwin P. (Red) Diamond has been a part of the College of Marin for 27 of its 48 years. And upon being named president of the Kentfield campus this month, he drew on his long association with the school and predicted a new emphasis on two-year programs which prepare students for jobs.

The college will maintain its strong program of preparing students to move on to four-year academic institutions, he told the Independent-Journal yesterday. "But this is an older type population . . . not the typical college-type population we knew a few years ago. There is more concern for jobs as a result of two-year programs," he said.

Proposed Weight Labels Seen Hurting Customers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Proposed federal regulations regarding weight labeling of meat and poultry products could result in California consumers being "short-weighted" at the supermarket, the state's top agriculture official said yesterday.

C. Brunel Christensen, state agriculture director, said the regulations would prevent states from removing short-weight packages from sale in their jurisdictions.

"The concept that the weight labels on packages be accurate only at the time the contents are packed at USDA inspected plants and that no state may apply its own standards might be of benefit to packers," Christensen said.

"But it would cost American wholesalers, retailers and consumers serious losses in short weight meat and poultry products."

It would cost California consumers millions of dollars alone, Christensen added.

Christensen said the regulations were being considered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In letters to the House and Senate Agriculture Committees in Washington, D.C., Christensen said the proposed weight concept "makes no provision for losses of moisture from the product between the time it is packed and the time it is shipped and sold."

Why should the consumer, Christensen asked, 'have to pay for 16 ounces of a product when it may actuall weigh several ounces less at the counter?"

For years California has been applying its own standards to meat, removing underweight packages from stores, he said.

Admiral Is Cleared In Senate Inquiry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has concluded that Adm. Thomas H. Moorer did "nothing improper" in connection with an alleged military spying operation in the White House in 1971, according to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., committee chairman. Stennis issued the committee's finding yesterday following an investigtion by the committee of allegations that top-secret documents were stolen from the National Security Council and delivered to Moorer, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Brown Asks Limit To Campaigning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Edmund G. Brown Jr., Democratic nominee for governor, yesterday proposed that he and his Republican rival, Houston Flournoy, eliminate paid radio and television commercials from their campaigns.

"In recent years politics has been corrupted by the use of slick television and radio commercials which ignore the issues and sell candidates like bars of soap," said Brown, the secretary of state.

Instead of television commercials, both candidates could engage in debates and joint appearances, Brown told a news conference.

A campaign spokesman for Flournoy, the state controller, said there would be no immediate comment.

"If Mr. Flournoy agrees to my proposal to substitute a series of debates for paid radio and television commercials, I believe we can set a bold new precedent for American politics," Brown said.

"The voters will be able to better compare the two candidates and the candidates will be freed from the burden of raising enormous sums to purchase radio and television commercials," he said.

Both candidates already have agreed to limit their campaign spending in accordance with provisions of Proposition 9, the political reform act approved by voters but which doesn't go into effect until 1975. It limits each to about $1.3 million in spending.

Brown said the joint appearances should begin shortly after Labor Day and continue until the election at the rate of approximately one every 10 days.

Thirty-second TV commercials, Brown said, "often convey no information and force candidates to resort to slogans and catchy phrases.

"I think we can do much better. I believe the voters want to hear how we stand on the issues. They want to compare us and make an informed decision."

He said several television stations already have "indicated their willingness" to broadcast debates and "I believe even more stations will make time available if Mr. Flournoy and I jointly ask them."

Thief Gets Last Word Despite Victim's Action

MIAMI (UPI) — Juan Adan managed to save his television set, and if he hadn't tried to immobilize the thieves' getaway car he might have kept his wallet.

He went inside the house and found his television set and other valuables stacked near the door.

Adan walked back outside, snatched the keys from the Volkswagen's ignition, and walked back inside to call police.

The woman and a male companion followed Adan into the house, wrestled away the car keys, beat Adan, stole his wallet, and fled in the auto, abandoning the rest of the loot.

Crash Kills 12

PUEBLA, Mexico (UPI) — A truck loaded with construction materials —mostly stones—collided with an automobile then struck a bus yesterday. Police said 12 persons were killed and 17 injured —aboard the bus.

Herring Fishermen See Quotas, Other Plans As Major Threats

By MARK LITTMAN

Commercial fishermen meeting with state wildlife officials in Tiburon yesterday expressed fears that recent quotas and proposed regulations on herring fishing in San Francisco and Tomales bays may adversely affect their operations.

The meeting was the third this month between the two groups to create proposals for regulating herring fishing in the area. The state Fish and Game Commission will consider the recommendations in August before taking final action on them in October.

The fishermen objected to the size of quotas regulating the total amount of tonnage that can be fished during each season, December through March, for commercial purposes, and were especially critical of limits imposed for the first time on the amount that be caught for bail.

Season quotas limiting the herring take in San Francisco Bay to 600 tons, 100 tons of which may be caught for bait and 500 tons in Tomales Bay of which 50 tons may be caught for bait, were established early this year under a law introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Behr and conservationists began legislative action last summer to preserve stocks of herring in the area.

However, fishermen complained yesterday, the new law leaves no provision for additional fishing for live bait by year-round suppliers for sports fishermen nor fish caught for human consumption.

John J. Royal, executive secretary for the ILWU Fishermen's Union Local 33, based in San Pedro, also called the Fish and Game Department's proposals discriminatory against owners of large fishing craft in that they would prohibit the use of large craft and purse seines, in either bay.

Fishermen also faulted restricting the number of boats in the bays, one fishermen suggesting that enough be permitted to give local fishermen sufficient employment.

Niles J. Millen, patrol captain for the marine enforcement division of the wildlife department commented that the restricted fishing made it easier to enforce fishing quota regulations.

He said that next season, 12 boat permits will again be issued to catch herring in San Francisco Bay and five permits issued for fishing in Tomales Bay through a lottery. Each boat will be limited to a maximum catch of 90 tons, Millen added.

Also at the meeting, biologists conducting a two-year study of herring spawning areas for the fish and game department reported their first year's findings. They estimated that 4,241 tons of herring are in San Francisco Bay and 3,960 tons in Tomales Bay.

Their final findings will be presented to the state Legislature in 1975 to determine how quotas should be adjusted.

Army Speeds Turnover Of Fort Lands

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The Army is preparing to turn over most of the lands of the Marin County forts to the Golden Gate National Recreation Area within the next several weeks.

Rep. John L. Burton, D-Sixth District, reported today that the Army estimates that it will retain 87 of the 2,279 acres it holds within forts Barry and Cronkhite and the westerly half of Fort Baker. Park service officials said the Army's figures include nearly 1,000 acres of tidelands, but that the recreation area will pick up about 1,200 acres of usable land in the current negotiations.

Included in the properties to be transferred is the site of the Nike batteries in Fort Cronkhite, which will be cleared by the Army Air Defense Command by Tuesday, Burton said.

Burton said the 87 acres to be retained by the Army include family housing units, reserve training facilities, a firing range and access roads that will be used jointly by the Army and the park service.

The land transfer will be carried out under the provisions of legislation which created the Golden Gate National Recreation Area and mandated park use for the military properties when they become surplus to the Army's needs.

Pact Reached In One Phase Of Big Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Operating engineers and the Associated General Contractors have agreed to a tentative contract, while striking carpenters and laborers continue their walkout in 46 Northern California counties.

Details of the contract were not released, pending a ratification vote within the next 10 days by 12,000 to 15,000 heavy equipment operators, officials said. Negotiators for both sides have endorsed the agreement.

"This sets the groundwork for resolution of issues with the other unions," AGC spokesman Wendell Reed said yesterday. He was referring to the striking carpenters and laborers who have halted nearly $1 billion in construction work.

"I think you'll see our negotiations beginning to bear fruit if our agreement with the operating engineers holds up," he said. However, even if the operating engineers ratify the contract as expected, Reed said they probably won't return to work until the other strikes are settled.

(In Marin, the strike has stalled several large construction projects. They include the Courthouse Square development in San Rafael, Firemen's Fund computer center near Lucas Valley, Cannon Village in Fairfax, a medical building on South Eliseo Drive in Larkspur, the Novato freeway bypass, a telephone company building in Ignacio and the Greenwood Bay condominiums near Tiburon.)

Reed said negotiations were scheduled today between the AGC and Laborers Union, but no talks were set with the carpenters.

"I suspect the carpenters will be the last craft to settle," he added.

The operating engineers, who were not on strike, are among several construction crafts whose contracts with the AGC all expired about the same time.

Elsewhere, carpenters in 11 Southern California counties have called a strike for Monday unless contract negotiations there show progress.

MEXICAN FABLE

Nonmarriage Ends In Nondivorce Suit

Six years ago, Marin physician William S. Neal and Orene Goldberg told their friends they were married in Mexico.

They lived together as man and wife until last February, when they announced they had obtained a Mexican divorce.

Neither the marriage nor the divorce ever took place, Miss Goldberg asserted yesterday in a Marin Superior Court suit.

But the couple's five years and two months together ought to be worth more than $2,000 to Miss Goldberg, the amount Dr. Neal has offered her, she said in the suit, which asks division of "quasi-marital property."

No matter what the outcome of Miss Goldberg's suit, it appears both she and Dr. Neal will have spouses soon.

San Rafael attorney William B. Wolfson, who filed Miss Goldberg's suit, said he will marry her Sept. 15.

And at the same time Wolfson was filing his fiancee's petition, Dr. Neal, 61-year-old pediatrician, was in the Marin County Clerk's office to take out a license to marry Natalie Posner, 54.

Economists Urge Federal Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) A group of economists has told House Democratic leaders that a tax reduction is needed to boost buying power of low to moderate income groups. Their statement yesterday followed by a day abandonment by Senate liberals of an effort to push through a tax cut.

The economists criticized administration economic policies and said that prospects for the economy's growth in the next year to 18 months are "very weak."

Red Tape Contest Just Spawns More

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has sent a memo to all its divisions seeking nominations for awards given each year by the government to employees who contribute the most to reducing paperwork.

"... six (6) copies of any nomination, rather than four (4 should be submitted ...," the memo said.

BLOOD BANK'S BEST DONOR

In the 10 years that he's been a Marin County sheriff's deputy, John S. Bratina has donated blood regularly, filling up three donation cards. Bratina, here assisted by nurse Patricia Patterson, gave his 41st pint today as the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank came to the Marin Civic Center in a drive sponsored by the Marin Association of Public Employees. Bratina, whose donation today took him over the five-gallon mark, now has given almost twice as much blood as the average male body contains — 12 quarts. The blood bank is seeking more donors and asks Marin citizens to telephone the Bank's San Rafael office before coming in.

Human Service Agency Criticized

The mammoth Marin County Department of Health and Human Services received a poor report card today from the county Grand Jury after its first year of operation.

"The amount of tax dollars budgeted for human and health services is not buying the amount of quality of service possible," the grand jury committee investigating the department concluded.

The new super agency was created last July, embracing health, mental health and probation departments along with the Department of Public Social Services, commonly known as the welfare department.

Betty L. Presley, head of the welfare department, was placed at the top of the new agency but quits the end of this week.

"Since the inception of this monolith agency, it has been characterized by constant controversy and considerable bureaucratic chaos," the grand jury committee wrote in its report.

"The consequence has been overemphasis on procedures rather than improvement of the delivery of services to the public. It is the inevitable conclusion that the service to the patient or client is suffering as a result of the preoccupation of staff with structural concerns," it continued.

The committee found that "the complexity and scope of this 'super' agency (even after splitting off the probation department in April 1974) and the tangle of red tape have proved to be a major hindrance . . ."

The committee also noted that there was a "somewhat rigid spirit" at the top of the department and "lack of cooperation from some heads of component departments."

All in all, the committee concluded, "no giant steps forward thus far have been taken."

The Board of Supervisors must share the blame with the department staff, the committee said, because of an emphasis on administrative setup rather than services to people.

As for Miss Presley, the committee noted that she "had demonstrated excellent abilities as administrator of a large agency" when she headed the welfare department.

"The Board of Supervisors appeared to assume that those abilities qualified her to make an evaluative study and develop plans for a more complex structure. This assumption has yet to be proven," the report said.

The grand jury also chided the Board of Supervisors for haste in "making his major shakeup in department organization."

"Almost no advance warning was given the public sectors concerned. It was feared, apparently, that wider publicity and citizen dialogue on the merits of the proposed merger would have quashed the county's move," the committee said.

(The new agency was proposed April 5, 1973 by County Administrator John F. Barrows and approved May 8, 1973 by county supervisors.)

The grand jury committee said, though, that the objective of merging various departments under a strong administration with the hope of eliminating duplication of services was a good one.

But another problem in addition to the haste shown in the merger, was that Miss Presley had "to meet so many day-to-day crises that there is almost no time for her to study and plan."

The grand jury committee recommended that the director of health and human services be freed from all responsibilities except those required by law or those regarding major policy decisions "to allow her time to think, plan and coordinate."

Department chiefs under the director "should be given operational responsibility and authority for both program and fiscal management," the committee recommended.

(This has been an especially sore point with administration of the mental health services, where officials have complained they could not operate effectively because they did not have full responsibility for the department.)

In the future, the committee concluded, the Board of Supervisors should take more time before making major changes and should emphasize delivery of needed services rather than concentrating on the structure of the agency.

San Quentin Change Urged, Coroner Costs Questioned

Two-man sheriff's patrols in remote areas, an investigation into rising costs in the coroner's office and a major restructuring of San Quentin Prison were recommended today by the 1974 grand jury. (Other grand jury stories, page 1.)

The jury's law enforcement committee devoted most of its report to the prison, which it called "an excessive tax and social burden" on Marin and "antiquated, obsolete (and) inept."

The jury recommended better qualified prison guards, conjugal visits, higher pay and better vocational and educational programs for inmates, and the shrinking of San Quentin to an institution holding from 500 to 700 men.

A smaller prison, along with other such prisons scattered throughout the state, would make it possible for "each inmate (to) be housed in a regional facility as close as possible to his home and family."

The committee said it is up to the state to fully reimburse the county for every expense associated with the prison. At present, the county public defender is reimbursed only partially for expenses incurred in defending San Quentin prisoners, and the county lost $23,000 that way in 1972 and 1973, according to the report.

(Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best likewise has criticized the lack of 100 per cent reimbursement and is considering ordering the state to furnish private lawyers for all San Quentin inmates facing legal proceedings in Marin courts.)

Allowing conjugal visits would "help to reduce the incidence of male rape, perversion and homosexuality."

Better-qualified prison guards, with higher pay and more training, should be sought, the report said, though that has proved difficult with the increase of tension at the prison and the higher percentage of violent offenders being incarcerated, it said.

In the first four and one-half months of 1974, the report noted, there were 25 assaults and three deaths. The report called these "inevitable with the present makeup of the prison population, which represents the extreme misbehavioral group."

Turning to the coroner-public administrator, the committee suggested the board of supervisors undertake a full "cost-effectiveness study" to explore why the office's budget has grown more than twice as fast as its caseload since 1968.

The committee praised the sheriff's department for its "professional operation" and suggested that two deputies be assigned to patrol cars in the rural areas of Marin where other law officers are not available to help out in emergencies. Tamper-proof equipment should be installed on patrol cars, which when unattended are a favorite target of vandals, the report said.

Calling the management structure of the probation department "befuddled," the report suggested that the relationship of the department to other county agencies be clearly defined, and that the probation department make as much use as possible of computer equipment to monitor the progress of probationers.

The report's section on Marin's juvenile hall dealt mostly with the physical plant. The senior boys' unit should be remodeled and the junior boys' unit, now housed in temporary quarters, replaced, it said.

The law enforcement committee did not attempt to evaluate the performance of the fledgling Department of Corrections, which has operated the county's honor farm less than six months.

It did suggest the probation department, which is due to absorb the corrections department on Monday, develop a program to monitor the activities of inmates after they are released from the honor farm.

OAKLAND (AP) —Police have recovered the body of Toru Yokoyama, 28, of Richmond, who was killed when his car plunged 380 feet into a steep canyon here below grizzly Peak Boulevard.

Motorists told police that Yokoyama passed them at a high rate of speed on the winding road, crossed over the center line and shot off the road Wednesday night.

Grand Jury Proposes Combining Schools

Going a step beyond the critical grand jury report of 1970, this year's Marin County Grand Jury today recommended consolidation of schools in the Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts.

The 1970 jury called for a complete restructuring of the Sausalito district after finding the district's schools in "abhorrent condition" with militancy and racist propaganda abounding.

This year's report of the jury's education committee uses milder language but finds much to criticize in the district.

"Militancy and racist propaganda have virtually disappeared; but lack of academic achievement continues to be evidenced," the committee reported.

It noted that "exorbitant per pupil costs still prevail" in the district even though two of its four schools have been closed and enrollment has dropped from around 700 students to about 500.

Many of the district's students have transferred to other districts or private schools and others who have sought to leave "have been denied transfers because of district policy," according to the report.

The district has experienced substantial budget increases even though the student population (65 per cent nonwhite) has dropped 28 per cent. Teachers salaries are about 20 per cent above the county mean, with 36 receiving more than $16,200 yearly and an average of $14,550, the report said.

The committee also termed administrative, nonteaching and operating-maintenance expenditures "astronomical."

In addition to recommending consolidation, the committee urged that the positions of superintendent and principal be combined in the district, early retirement of ineffective teachers be "assiduously encouraged by administration," maintenance work be consolidated and staff reduced.

The education committee also recommended studying possible combination of the main Marin County Library with the proposed new San Rafael city library and that county supervisors establish a library board to assist with the selection of books for the county library.

Bookmobile operation should be evaluated and consideration given to phasing it out, modifying it or combining it with other county library vehicles, the committee said.

In reviewing the College of Marin, the committee called for "better articulation. . .at all levels within the colleges and the school districts," noted that its Emeritus College for persons over 55 years old is "proving effective," and called for lower ratios between students and counselors.

The report called for continued support by supervisors of the Marin Community Workshop which provides work training for retarded adults and urged the workshop to seek federal funds.

Commission Will Decide Sea Ranch Plan July 11

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The North Central Coast Regional Conservation Commission last night set July 11 for the decision whether Sea Ranch is legally entitled to an exemption from regulation under the Coastal Act.

Last night in a lengthy public hearing, Howard N. Ellman, attorney for Oceanic California, developers of the 5,200 acre Sonoma County project, argued that the exemption should be granted.

He contended that all necessary approvals for the second home development on the coast were granted by Sonoma County in 1964 and 1963, long before the Coastal Act was passed in 1973.

Since only 1,750 of the development's 5,200 lots have been built upon, the project faces tough controls by the commission if not granted the exemption.

The restrictions include cutting trees to improve views, providing more public access to the ocean and monitoring of septic tank systems.

Fighting the granting of the exemption last night were representatives of the Natural Resources Defense Council, Coastal Alliance and the Sierra Club.

On July 11 the state attorney general's office will announce a finding and the commission is expected to abide by the advice of the counsel.

Fair Gets Black Point Nod Again

The Renaissance Pleasure Faire has been granted a permit to operate again this year south of Highway 27 near Black Point for six weekends starting Aug. 24.

Zoning administrator Charles J. Linthicum granted the permit yesterday on the condition the fair gain clearance from the Novato Fire District and other agencies in the area.

The fair is seeking a permanent location for a center on the Veronda property north of Novato at the Sonoma County line but Sonoma County has filed suit objecting to the potential excessive traffic during the fair.

The fair has been operating at the Black Point location for several years after opening along North San Pedro Road near Santa Venetia.

Linthicum also granted the Novato Rotary Club a permit for 30 units of housing for the elderly at 1124 Olive Avenue.

ENERGY CONSERVATION HOME
USES LESS ENERGY

Just look for the Energy Conservation Home sign. It's a symbol of savings through efficient use of energy. When seen on a new house or apartment, it means that the builder is offering a home designed to conserve energy and save money.

All Energy Conservation Homes use gas for comfort heating, water heating and cooking. (Because gas puts less strain on our natural resources.)

Also, the walls and ceilings have been insulated, and exterior doors are weatherstripped to save energy in heating and cooling.

Because of today's energy problems, and rising utility rates, conserving gas and electricity is of the utmost importance. When home hunting, look for residences displaying the Energy Conservation Home symbol. PG and E

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Remember Alioto's Commuter Tax Plan?

Remember "way back to November, 1967, when Joe Alioto was first elected mayor of San Francisco?

Then — as before and since — San Francisco's wasteful city-county government was having financial pains. And immediately after his election, even before taking office, Alioto began producing ideas for increasing city-county revenue.

ONE OF HIS very first ones was a tax on commuters. He estimated that perhaps $2 million a year might be raised in that way. And he told reporters, "I don't think the commuters would wail too much."

By the following March, the new mayor had his "sock the commuter" plan all worked out — and had raised his estimate of the revenue to be produced by nearly seven times. He proposed a one per cent tax on the San Francisco earnings of all who worked there and lived elsewhere, to be collected by payroll deduction. And he estimated this would pour $13.6 million a year into San Francisco's bottomless municipal coffers.

Naturally, Marin commuters — along with those down the Peninsula and in the East Bay — were incensed at the idea. The board of supervisors and various city councils passed resolutions of opposition.

QUITE A FEW lawyers — including the city attorney of San Francisco — expressed doubts about the constitutionality of such a tax. But just to play safe, Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Piedmont, introduced a bill in the legislature specifically prohibiting such taxation of non-residents.

Mayor Joe professed not to be disturbed by all this. He pooh-poohed the idea the tax was unconstitutional. And he said Mulford's bill would not affect San Francisco because, as a charter city, it was above the legislature.

But just to play safe, he got four San Francisco assemblymen — and one of them in particular — to fight Mulford's bill.

Their fight failed, and the bill became law. And a court decreed that San Francisco could not levy such a tax anyhow.

WE RECITE this brief history because, on Tuesday of this week, a new congressman took the oath of office to represent Marin County and part of San Francisco in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The new congressman is John L. Burton. And it was he who, as an assemblyman, carried the fight for Joe Alioto against Don Mulford's bill to outlaw the commuter tax. He even tried — without a smidgeon of success — to get the bill reconsidered after its passage.

Burton will represent Marin (and part of San Francisco) in Congress until the end of this year. He will continue to represent it through 1976 if he wins election to a full term in November over the Republican candidate, Thomas Caylor.

We think we may be excused for feeling a bit uneasy about being represented in Congress by the man who fought hardest to put a discriminatory tax bite on Marin commuters back in 1968. We can only hope he proves as loyal to his new constituency as he was then to Mayor Joe.

Come Back, Fine Tuners

Where are they now? We mean those fellows who used to talk so glibly about "fine-tuning" the economy. They gave the impression that all the government had to do was adjust a few knobs and everything would be rosy. Now that we could use their delicate touch in these days of double-digit inflation and double-digit prime rates and rising unemployment, they appear to be calloussing their hands digging holes in their back yards in which to bury precious metals.

People Have Power To Stop Antics In The 'Throne Room'

Before starting comments on the throne room, I would like to say that it would be impossible for me to agree more with the fine editorial on Irwin Diamond, the newly appointed president of the College of Marin. My personal best wishes to an old friend. His merit should have been acknowledged long ago.

Even though the throne room supes have no legislative authority beyond the unincorporated areas, sad to realize their every action cost you, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer, sums that you shouldn't be burdened with.

In the main, it's the fault of those who do not vote. We are burdened with a condition that could be eliminated if we were not governed by a majority of the minority. It sounds more screwy every time one thinks about it.

YOU DO NOT have to stand for it. You can force them, by the referendum and initiative, to suspend any ordinance or call an election to let you decide. Then if you get the vote out — really work at it — the determination of the majority of the majority will prevail and nothing more can be said.

I fully expected that some legal minds would call Gary Giacomini, when he induced the board to vote to provide a subsidy for the milk producers. It's hard to believe that, being a lawyer himself, he didn't know that would be an illegal gift of public funds.

This sort of proves that they really do think they rank with our U.S. Congress and our state legislature. Then, of course, is the indication that he belongs to the school which works on the theory, "Try it, and if no one kicks we are in."

It has worked, because not enough came forward and told them what the public mind is, when he put his campaign manager in as his assistant. You now have six supervisors. They have provided her with a big well equipped office. This all without your vote or permission.

LET'S HEAR IT! How do you like the idea that the mass of the employees got a 9 per cent raise, while the supes took a tenner and lovingly fattened their guiding light with a 15 per cent — or $4,884 above his present gift of $32,544. You add it up, my eyes are tired. Campanella gets a gift of $4,392 to add to his present $29,304, while the supes tenner increases their gravy from $16,000 to $18,480.

When in the world are you going to speak out in words they will understand?

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Reason For Referendum Vote On Housing

The public should be forcefully alerted to the fact that Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 40 has been qualified for the November ballot. If confirmed by the electorate, it will remove from the state constitution a requirement that low-cost housing projects, which have been approved by local governing boards, must be confirmed by a referendum of the voters of the locality.

Low-cost housing projects in any community have the effect of greatly increasing requirements for public services — police, fire, and schools in particular. At the same time, the inhabitants of such projects often provide much less than their share of taxes to pay for the expanded services. The much-increased burden then falls on the other members of the community.

You quote Senator Behr as having confidence in "the wisdom of local governing boards in approving" such projects. The "wisdom" of such boards is not in question. Senator Behr, however, as a former county supervisor, knows very well that city councilmen and county supervisors are subject to much pressure from special interests; that, moreover, the councilmen and supervisors have to act in public on these matters. The voters in the referendum are not subject to such pressures.

The main objection of the protagonists of AGA 40 to the current constitutional provision seems to be that many low-cost housing projects have been rejected by the voters in referendum. It would seem, therefore, that the majority of voters often have found something wrong with the proposed projects. Is this not, then, a strong argument in favor of retaining in the constitution a provision for the protection of a majority of the qualified voters of the community?

Surplus Water Sale Nullifies Moratorium

Considering the selling of "surplus water" to non-district, non-tax-paying areas, i.e. Wolfback Ridge etc., that if this "surplus exists" there is then no valid reason for a moratorium on new connections.

Coupled with a statement that the North Marin intertie may never be built, even though funds for same have been appropriated with voter approval, it seems now that any appeal against a recent court ruling rendering the moratorium illegal, is right on the garbage heap where it belongs.

'Fairfax Fink' Poor Exercise In Invective

Glenn Meagher properly denied authorship of the "Fairfax Fink." He is a person of considerable wit and intelligence while the fink is a poor effort at invective by some sad soul who is grossly unequal to the job.

Invective is a fine art and as such is to be indulged in only by persons of precision of thought and agility of expression.

Anyone who has read the "Fink" can testify that it totally lacks all these qualities.

What Happens To Off-Road Vehicle License Funds?

The Department of Motor Vehicles has collected thousands of dollars through off-highway vehicle ("green sticker") registrations and will collect a lot more as of July 31, 1974, when all off-road vehicles are required to be registered. The DMV is supposed to return a portion of the $15 fee (two-year registration) to each county on the basis of it's contributions. As yet, I have not seen or heard of any plans to establish a public off-road recreation area for Marin County, even though there are funds for doing so.

I'd like to know:

(1) What the DMV is doing with Marin's OHV money;

(2) If there are any plans, or organized groups promoting plans for a public off-road recreation area.

Postal Service Killing The Frog By Gradually Heating Water

(Reprinted from Lemoore Advance)

There is an ancient story going the rounds which says you can't kill a frog by dropping him in boiling water. He reacts so quickly to the sudden heat that he jumps out before he's hurt.

But if you put him in cold water and then warm it up gradually, he never decides to jump till it's too late. By then he's cooked.

It seems to us the gradual raising of the postage rates in the United States is now just that kind of case. We have about reached the boiling point and if we don't prepare to jump we'll never be able to get out of the pot.

COMMUNICATION is the life blood of business and all personal transactions. The customer will no longer beat a path to the door of the guy in the wilderness who makes a better mousetrap.

Our nation's accustomed means of communications, newspapers, magazines, and useful third class mail — which the U.S. Postal Service contemptuously calls "junk mail" — are being throttled by the highest postal rates of any nation in the world. . .

The latest rate hike went in so quietly that we "frogs" have not yet quite realized the increase. Where are the old standard national means of communication such as Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, Life Magazine, proven by their millions of subscribers as the most popular of all American publications in their field? Buried long ago by rising postal rates.

Now we learn that the Reader's Digest, with the largest number of readers in America, and the entire world, may close down because of the squeeze caused by the millions of additional dollars they will be required to pay in postage alone to bring their message to their readers. . .

THE LAST HUGE postal hike was engineered by the high command of the government corporation, without any warning to press our congressmen. It came so suddenly that local post offices did not know a few days before how much or how extensive this increase would be.

Naturally there was no complaint beforehand and now, it seems business people are so stunned that we have little complaint of any kind about the hike.

Postal authorities have claimed as justification, that they are under pressure to make the postal service pay its own way like a private business. Actually the number of years that was accomplished, under the old system was not more than one year out of 10! Benjamin Franklin, first postmaster general, conceived postal communication as absolute necessity for the general public and if its budgets were exceeded, counted them as rendering a general public service. His ideas were followed by Congress and citizens for generations, excepting only the last few years.

Isn't it about time we jumped out of the fire to send our senators and congressmen a plea to bring back reasonable postal rates once again?

'New Politicians,' McGovern Stripe, Fight To Retain Party Control

WASHINGTON — It is generally agreed that the Democrats will devastate the Republican Party in Congress in the fall elections but there is still grave doubt whether they can win the presidency in 1976.

Why should the Democrats be so strong in the congressional campaign and remain weak in the presidential election?

One powerful reason is that the antics and the image of the left-of-center New Politics, which created the massive McGovern defeat two years ago, still hang over the Democratic Party.

And they are not being lifted.

THE NATIONAL IMAGE of the party and its national policies do not determine the congressional voting. Each party will have some 470 candidates in the field, and their personalities and standings in their districts will be decisive.

But when it comes to electing the president, the national party image and its national policies are decisive, as was the case two years ago when the American people voted for Richard Nixon not because they so greatly liked him but because they liked what they felt he stood for.

Thus far the Democrats show no clear sign that they are going to keep from turning 1976 into another 1972. The architects of the New Politics remain powerful and numerous in the ranks of the Democratic Party and they are intent upon keeping control. They are not dismayed by the McGovern disaster and aim for a rerun, though with another candidate.

WE WILL KNOW in a few months how powerful they are. The test will be the makeup of the Democratic Charter Conference, an all-purpose midterm convention which meets in Kansas City next December.

The 2,509 delegates are now in process of being elected at the local level. Only about a quarter of the total has been named, but thus far the inheritors of the Eugene McCarthy-George McGovern tradition are doing better than many expected and the party regulars are not doing so well as they hoped.

At the latest count party regulars, including union leaders, office holders and others representing the Humphrey-Jackson wing, are only slightly in the lead, with New York and California — strongholds of the New Politics — still to be heard from.

There is little prospect that the party regulars will command the December convention. It is quite possible that the New Politicians will.

If so, two things can happen: divisive controversy tending to tear the party apart or a restructuring of the rules and policies of the Democratic Party which will invite another "Miami."

IT NEEDS TO BE understood that this midterm Democratic convention is all-powerful. It can do almost anything it wants. It can adopt a new party platform. It can rewrite the rules governing state and local party procedures. It can pronounce on any issue whatsoever. It can elect a new Democratic National Committee and a new national chairman to carry out its orders. It also can remain in force to take any action a majority of the delegates decide on up to the convening of the 1976 national convention.

This is why the Coalition for a Democratic Majority, a centrist Democratic group, fears that the result may "force the party into a mold cut from traditions alien to the Democratic Party and the institutions of American democracy."

Neither Crowds Nor Agreements Are Spontaneous In Moscow

WASHINGTON — The word among our traditional allies in Western Europe is that Mr. Nixon's scouts have been asking about the reception he might get if he visited there, too, during the weeks when his case is before Congress and the courts. But in Moscow he never needed to put out feelers to our traditional adversaries; Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev sent him an eager message way back, making him welcome again. All of which brings up the question of whether foreign excursions whose domestic political uses are so blatant can possibly produce anything beneficial to the rest of us Americans.

That judgment cannot be based on the size and telegenic enthusiasm of the hordes trucked in to line the boulevards of Moscow, Minsk, or wherever else the president travels, anymore than an accurate assessment of his Middle Eastern trip can be taken from the White House's crowd estimates between Cairo and Alexandria.

SOME MAY SUSPECT I go too far in saying the cheering throngs will be trucked in. But unless the increased output of motor vehicles in the Soviet Union allows them now to be bused in instead, this is exactly what happens.

Many times while awaiting the arrival of one or another great man at the Moscow or Sofia or East Berlin airport or train station, I have come early enough to watch the spontaneous crowds being organized. This is not a procedure peculiar to Communist countries, as any Nixon advance man can tell you, but those countries are particularly skilled at it.

They already have each apartment house, block, assembly line and factory organized, with leaders assigned right down to squad level. So on a special occasion, when the order is issued that the workers of Red Banner Synthetic Fiber Factory No. 12 in the Name of Vladimir Ilyich will have a holiday from work, and that they will show up at their assembly point at 8 a.m. sharp, dressed in their proletarian best, they show up.

They board their trucks and, when they arrive at the airport or their designated spot along the motorcade route, they are issued tiny flags of the visiting dignitary's country, to wave for him and the cameras as he passes by. And then they wait several hours, do their jobs, and the press reports that the visitor got an overwhelming reception that bodes well for the important economic and military negotiations that are to follow.

IN 1972, the scale of the precisely controlled Moscow reception for Mr. Nixon surprised many students of East-West atmospherics. The agreements reached and communiques issued as the president departed were not of earth-shaking moment. But things have become clearer in retrospect, since, for example, the grain deal of that fall, since which the prices of groceries for American consumers have never been the same.

Even as he departs on the current trip, Secy. of State Henry Kissinger is having to deny that he made a special side agreement on the previous one, allowing the Russians more nuclear missiles aboard submarines than was stated in the formal SALT communique signed two years ago.

Should this smack of cynicism from one exposed too long to what is happening in Washington, consider the view of a Western European specialist in these affairs, Pierre Hassner of the Centre d'Etude des Relations Internationales in Paris, writing in Potomac Associates' new book, "A Nation Observes":

"If one judges the grain deal or other economic agreements with the Soviet Union as political bargains, one may wonder whether the value of Soviet concessions was not limited to face-saving for the Nixon administration in circumstances that it had unnecessarily brought upon itself, and whether the administration's heralded diplomatic successes have not led primarily to a discreet but steady increase in the power of the Soviet Union."

Which is not necessarily to discount in advance any agreements formalized in Moscow this week. It is, however, to remind that all the quid pro quo will not be typed out in the communiques. The most substantive thing Mr. Nixon gets may well be the crowds turned out for the American cameras accompanying him.

TURNS SWEET 16

Little Girls Help Barbie Celebrate

By JACK LEFLER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Barbie doll, a billion-dollar baby, is sweet 16 this year, and millions of little girls are helping her celebrate.

Barbie is the world's biggest selling toy. To her young owners she is a real personality. To Mattel Inc., her producer, she is a $100-million-a-year enterprise.

Eighty million Barbies have been sold since the doll was created in 1958 by Ruth Handler, co-founder of the toy manufacturer. Sales are now running about six million a year.

Teen-ager Barbie is 11½ inches tall, has long blonde hair and is stylishly slender. She has a wardrobe that would be the envy of a movie star. And she is the owner of a townhouse, an airplane, a dune buggy and other luxuries — if parents want to pay the bill.

Why has Barbie won this phenomenal place in the hearts of girls?

"Barbie strikes a common denominator as the All-American good little girl, and the child can both identify with Barbie and want to be like her," says Dr. Edward R. Ritvo, associated professor of child psychiatry at the UCLA Medical School.

"Children since time immemorial, as their personalities grow, have used things to develop their fantasies around," he continued.

"Girls particularly . . . have chosen objects which we call dolls which they love and kiss. They do to dolls what their mothers do to them. They imagine they're grown up. They sort of try out the grown-up role.

"Each generation has found certain common things in their toys like Goldilocks or Raggedy Ann.

"The Barbie doll has become the popular one for the kids of today because Barbie represents a contemporary individual — whatever she is to the child. She's ubiquitous enough to be a baby, a little girl or a teen-ager."

Mattel says Barbie was designed to project her little owners into adulthood.

"Barbie enabled millions of little girls to put themselves into almost limitless future life situations," he adds. "Through Barbie, they were able to project a variety of teen-age and young adult lives, their hopes and dreams for the future."

Some parents say ruefully that once a child is bitten by the Barbie bug there is no end to what she wants for her doll.

"What's with this doll?" gasped a father at the sight of Barbie's wedding gown. "When does it all stop?"

A Barbie costs $3 to $5 with a basic kit of apparel.

But that's only the start. The demanding doll has dresses, pantsuits, coats, shorts and nightgowns whick sell for $1 to $1.50 each.

Mattel sells 15 to 20 million costumes a year.

Barbie's accessories, such as the dune buggy, swimming pool, townhouse and airplane, sell at a rate of 3 million a year for $1 to $15 each.

Barbie has a whole colony of friends, whose population has exploded with regular additions through the years. They, too, sell for $3 to $5, with wardrobes at extra cost.

First there was Ken, her boyfriend. He was cleancut and handsome enough to make any girl's heart beat faster. Not long ago he turned up in a mod beard and long sideburns.

Then along came Barbie's best friend, freckle-faced, impish Midge, and Ken's buddy, Allan.

As the years went by, Barbie acquired brothers and sisters and her friends were given friends of their own.

Where will it all end?

Fair Film Deadline Is Aug. 1

The deadline for submitting films in the fourth annual film competition at the 1974 Marin County Fair is Aug. 1, according to C. Peter Gibb, film competition coordinator.

The competition is open to independent producers of films not commercially subsidized, Gibb said, and also includes two new categories for students. One is for students enrolled in a college film course and the other for students in high school film classes.

Awards totaling $2,400 will be made, including a special award of $250 open to all categories, for the best "Man and Nature" theme.

Films must have been completed after Jan. 1, 1972 and may be color or black and white, silent or sound and must be under 45 minutes.

Judges will be Robert Bell, professor in the film department at San Francisco State University; Shepard Menken, president of Malibu Films, and Robert Shekter, international film producer and artist.

The county fair will be Aug. 29 through Sept. 2 at the Marin County Civic Center.

Moscow Snarls Wedding Plans

MOSCOW (UPI) — A 22-year-old American woman who planned to marry a Russian yesterday was still single today because Soviet officials claimed the man was the father of another woman's unborn child.

"It's just a bunch of lies," Diane Nemec, daughter of a Chicago policeman, said. "Sergei (P. Inashev, her fiance) never heard of this girl and we have not been able to find her."

Miss Nemec said she was informed of the other woman on Wednesday.

"The authorities said they would not allow us to be married until the thing is cleared up even though there is no law saying such a thing can delay a marriage," she said.

Illegitimate Births Among Teens Still Up

BERKELEY (UPI) — Two researchers reported today that illegitimate births among California teen-agers persist at a high rate despite the availability of legal abortions.

The report by June Sklar, a research demographer at the University of California, and Beth Berkov of the state Department of Health, said the rate of illegitimate births by teen-agers was particularly steep between 1965 and 1970.

The rise was reversed in 1971 by increased legal abortion "leading some to expect the reversal to continue as a longer-range trend," the report said.

Group W's Telethon Policy Hit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert Strauss, Democratic National Committee chairman, yesterday soundly blasted the Westinghouse Corp., for refusing to carry this weekend the Democratic telethon on its two stations which are CBS affiliates.

Strauss, in a news conference, said every CBS-owned station and all of its affiliates, except the Washinghouse stations in San Francisco and Pittsburgh, will carry the 21-hour fund-raising telethon.

"I think it's the worst example of corporate citizenship I've seen since I've participated in politics," Strauss said.

"Here you have two stations in two major markets having licenses that belong to the people. I think it's an outrage," he said. "It's an embarrassment to the television industry."

The Westinghouse stations are KPIX-TV in San Francisco and KDKA-TV in Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I don't think this is due to the fact some high executives of Westinghouse were heavy contributors to the present administration," Strauss said, "but I did take note of it at the time."

The party chairman said Watergate would be handled in a "limited and low key way" during the telethon, scheduled to begin at 10 p.m. Saturday and end at 7 p.m. Sunday.

"Watergate is a negative," he said. "We need positive campaigning," he said office holders appearing on the telethon in an attempt to raise between $4 and $5 million would stick to the issues.

He said the telethon would cost about $2.4 million.

Last year the Democratic party raised $4.3 million in an eight-hour telethon on NBC.

Despite apparent voter apathy, Strauss said he was sure people would contribute.

Strauss refused to comment on the possibility that Los Angeles' black mayor, Tom Bradley, could be on a national ticket in 1976.

He praised Bradley, who defeated Mayor Sam Yorty for the office in 1973, as an "outstanding man, an outstanding leader who has great potential to help me nationally."

"I'm going to do a lot of damn fool things between now and 1976," Strauss added, "but I'm not going to play the game of names."

Plan To Discourage Long Distance Calls

ROME (UPI) — The government said yesterday it may try to discourage long telephone calls by doubling the rates every five minutes.

The post ministry, which also operates the telephone system, said the idea was under consideration as a means to reduce the overloading of city lines.

Indictments Clear Up A Pot Ring

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Nineteen persons, including a Vacaville physician, were indicted by a federal grand jury for conspiracy in connection with a $1 million marijuana smuggling ring, authorities reported yesterday.

"One of the major marijuana distribution networks in the West has been effectively closed by this indictment," said Asst. U.S. Attorney Donald H. Heller.

The indictments charging conspiracy to distribute and import marijuana were returned Wednesday and most of those named had been arrested by yesterday.

The physician indicted was identified as Dr. Fritz Roschen of Vacaville. Heller said he was the alleged "financier of part of the operation."

Heller said the smuggling operation involved more than $1 million in marijuana which was flown from the Culiacan area of Mexico to an airstrip just near the U.S. border.

From there it was transported by motor home in Sacramento, San Francisco, Vacaville and in some instances New York.

Heller said the other suspects, including four women, were all from the Sacramento, Fairfield and San Francisco areas. He identified the ringleader as Rodney Ellison, about 30, of Sacramento.

Children Vanish In Chilean Flood

CONCEPCION, Chile (UPI) — Up to 12 children were missing after floodwaters swept away a bridge, city officials reported yesterday.

Officials said the children had been playing on the bridge.

Another two persons, including a soldier who tried to aid a family whose home was being swept away, were drowned yesterday morning, officials said.

IDEAL FOR TELECASTS

Opryland Palace Brings Nashville Center Stage

By JAY SHARBUTT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — This pleasant, deceptively relaxed-looking city seems an unlikely candidate as a TV production center. Sure, a network producer occasionally roars in to tape a special or two here.

But a production center? Yep, even though its shows now only are syndicated efforts usually upstaged by flashy network "country" musicales that mix hay with concrete to get a kind of cornpone sludge.

The real Nashville shows here usually are either gospel or bona fide country music — and comedy, in one case — productions. Right now, at least nine are in production or getting set to tape.

They range from the well-known "Hee Haw" series to the venerable, 15-year-old "Porter Wagoner Show" to the new "Pop Goes the Country," a 30-minute talk and music show to be hosted by Ralph Emery, an accentless, respected radio — WSM — influence in country music.

Most syndicated TV shows here have been done at Nashville's three commercial TV stations —WSM, WLAC and WNGE. Most still are. But a new factor has entered the production picture here.

Opryland's broadcast center has a large TV studio, seven color cameras, new audio and videotape gear and a computerized console to let a show be taped, mixed and edited in one central location.

"It was built with the idea of using network, syndicated and commercial advertising production here," says Bill Turner, WSM's TV production manager. "We're here to compete with both coasts."

Big city producers may heehaw at the idea, but the man with the real "Hee Haw" — its producer, Sam Lovullo —thinks Nashville eventually could change from a small to a fairly significant TV production center.

The main holdups now, says Lovullo, a former CBS executive, are Madison Avenue, a lack of top-level technical — but not audio — expertise and experience in set design, wardrobe and makeup matters.

But the craft and technical gaps are narrowing, he says, and "the facilities are here, they're available. You get the right combination, the creative, the technical people, and you could make it work."

Commodity Statements Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department yesterday proposed a new regulation under which all commodity futures brokers operating under government supervision would be required to send profit and loss trading monthly statements to their customers.

The statements would show customers the current profit or loss status on all outstanding futures contract dealings. Statements would be required for all trading accounts except those held by hedgers, and by other futures commissions merchants or members of futures contract markets.

The agriculture Department's Commodity Exchange Authority (CEA) said a survey shows that nearly three-quarters of all regulated brokers already are sending such statements to customers, but "many thousands of customers" dealing with other brokers do not get monthly interim statements.

The regulation, if adopted, would apply to brokers dealing in government-regulated futures commodities including grains, livestock and a number of other agricultural products. Officials said interested parties can file comments on the proposal until Aug. 12.

Auto Mechanic Strike Threatens

A shutdown of Marin County's automotive service industry is threatened as a result of failure yesterday between machinist and management negotiators to reach an accord on a wage and fringe benefit package.

The dispute between Local 238 of District 115 Machinists Union and local automobile dealers and independent garages will come to a head Monday when the union's 700 members vote to accept or reject a final offer by the California Association of Employers.

Lester B. Young, union business representative, said the union negotiating committee will recommend the offer be rejected, in effect a strike vote. The vote will come at 10:30 a.m. at San Rafael Carpenters Hall, he said.

Both Lester and Harry H. McElroy, chief management negotiator, agreed a strike could cripple the automotive service industry in Marin. Both also said any strike would be "a long and drawn out affair."

The employer association yesterday, after five weeks of negotiation, offered the union a $2.50 hourly wage hike over three years for mechanics and body and fender workers. The union asked for a $2.75 hourly boost over three years, or a $2.50 boost coupled with an additional hike based on increases in the cost-of-living.

"Mainly, this problem has been the cost-of-living thing," said McElroy, vice president of the employers association. He said the flat $2.50 offer by management is "an awfully health bite."

"We're hopeful that the men on Monday will decide not to strike," he added.

Lester said a strike would affect about 25 major auto dealers and about 100 independent garages in Marin. A walkout would not affect about 30 smaller, owner-operated shops that have agreed to the employers association's offer.

(Lester added that local mass transit will be unaffected by a strike since mechanics employed by the Golden Gate Bridge District are hired under a separate contract. He noted that bridge district negotiators reached an accord with these machinists yesterday.)

Pollster Finds Citizens Unhappy With Nation

NEW YORK (AP) — The Harris Survey says a record 59 per cent of the American people are disenchanted with the state of the nation.

Harris said yesterday that for the first time since the question was posed in 1966, those expressing disenchantment included substantial numbers of enrolled Republicans, college-educated persons and workers earning $15,000 a year or more.

A similar poll conducted last year showed the disaffection rate at 55 per cent. In 1966, it was only 29 per cent.

The theory that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer was subscribed to by 79 per cent of the 1,413 households sampled by the survey organization in June. And 62 per cent of those queried believe "most elective officials are in politics for all they personally can get out of it for themselves."

THE BUSINESS END

From Literature To Music World

By BETTY FROST

How did a serious scholar with an advanced degree in Renaissance literature get into the business end of the music world?

"It was fairly accidental," said Diane Sward of San Anselmo, "and not from any background in contemporary music."

Mrs. Sward, a divorcee with two children, was living in Mexico in the late 1960s doing some writing. She became acquainted with three Americans and one Canadian who had formed a singing band. They needed bookings and she needed to supplement her income. She acted as their agent and the singers had a successful six month engagement at the Del Prado Hotel in Mexico City.

"My naivete combined with my enthusiams, I decided everyone else is making it in San Francisco, we might as well bring this band up to San Francisco," she said. "We hit the height of the rock and roll era in San Francisco, when there were 400 bands working and recording in the area and rock and roll music was the fourth largest industry in San Francisco. As it turned out my singing band was hopelessly old fashioned and they disbanded within six weeks."

DESPITE SUCH an unpropitious beginning, she offered her services as manager to Jan Tangen and Dave Freeman, who were playing acoustic lyrical guitar music. Later she worked for impresario Bill Graham for three years, managing the singer Victoria and a group called Lamb for him.

Now Mrs. Sward manages her own small stable of artists, and is teaching "The Business of Music" at the Family Light Music School, which was opened June 15 in Sausalito by Jan Tangen.

Professional musicians will be teaching at the new school and many of the courses are oriented to help musicians who are seeking professional careers, the music manager explained.

"I want to be sure that musicians beginning their careers have enough knowledge so they won't be exploited," she continued, "I will be discussing such things as contracts, managers, percentages and typical prices paid for recording performers."

At the beginning of her managerial career, Mrs. Sward didn't realize that she had stumbled into a field that was an unusual one for a woman. She now thinks that it is a wide open field for women and is hoping to begin a series of lectures in colleges, which will describe the opportunities and requirements of the business side of music.

Although she says of herself "I am on the fringes of the women's movement," she is deeply concerned with opening new opportunities for women.

"I AM IN love with the music business," Mrs. Sward said, "I am hooked on the scene, the whole carnival atmosphere, and I want to remain involved with it."

A decade ago she was a faculty wife at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y. She had received a master's degree in Renaissance literature and was preparing to enter a doctoral program with a view to teaching English at the college level. She was graduated from Connecticut College for Women at New London, Conn., where she majored in history. She was reared in Washington, D.C.

She has lived in Marin County for five years. She has two children, Barbara, 13, and Michael, 10. While Michael loves sports, the mother thinks that Barbara is going to be the musician of the family. She is a serious student of classical piano.

DIANE SWARD, business manager for a number of Bay Area musicians, says the "phone is a part of my ear." On warm summer days she frequently attends to business calls outside on the patio of her San Anselmo home.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Couple Brings Wedding Cake On Trip From Newfoundland

Katie and Samuel Parsons were married July 7, 1924, in St. John's, Newfoundland. The following day they left for California, bringing their wedding cake with them on the long journey by boat and train.

The former Katie Whalen is a native of Western Bay, Newfoundland. She went with her minister and his family to Burin, Newfouldland, 250 miles away to take care of his five children. On the boat taking them to Burin they met the sister of a dry goods merchant, who invited them to dinner at her brother's home. The food for the dinner was delivered by Samuel Parsons, one of his employees.

"The next Sunday we talked after church, and he asked me if I wanted to go for a walk in the twilight," Mrs. Parsons said.

"I already had my eye on her," Parsons said.

"His brother was in (San Francisco,) California, and he should have worked for the chamber of commerce. He wrote, and told us how beautiful it was," she said.

The couple decided to be married in St. John's, the capitol, and come to San Francisco immediately. His brother found an apartment for them on Dolores Street in San Francisco, where they lived for one year prior to moving to Alameda for 10 years. In 1937 a doctor advised them to move to Marin County for their daughter's asthma. They settled in Ross, where the doctor said, "With the rolling hills you will never have asthma or a cough." The move eliminated their daughter's asthma, and in 1939 they bought the home in Larkspur, where they still reside.

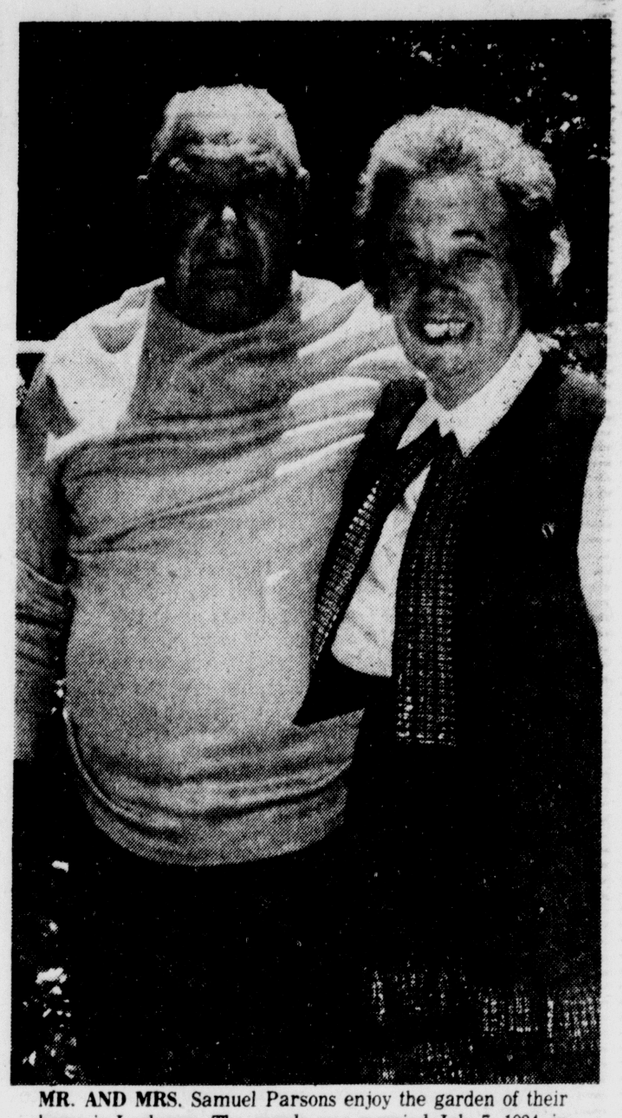
Parsons has had no desire to return to Newfoundland because of the severe winters, he said. Mrs. Parsons has made one return trip.

The couple made a trip across the United States in 1955 in a private railroad car, a gift from the Upjohn Co. after he had been with them for 25 years. He retired 10 years later.

One of the highlights of the trip for Mrs. Parsons was checking old weaving looms, as weaving is one of her hobbies. She also paints and makes afghans. Parsons is very proud of his flower and vegetable garden, and has won awards at the Marin Art and Garden Center Fair for his fruits and vegetables. He also enjoys working with wood, handiwork and his has produced a Tennessee cedar clock, which sits on the mantle of the family home, and a loom for his wife.

To celebrate their 50th anniversary the Parsons will be the guests of the daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Slusher of Corte Madera, July 6 at a dinner at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito. They will leave the following week for a trip with the San Rafael Senior Citizens to La Honda in Santa Cruz County.

They have two grandsons, Douglas and Richard Slusher.



MR. AND MRS. Samuel Parsons enjoy the garden of their home in Larkspur. The couple was married July 7, 1924, in Newfoundland and left the following day for California. An anniversary celebration is planned for the couple by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Slusher of Corte Madera.

VFW Auxiliary Set To Disband

The Auxiliary to Muir Woods Post 6741, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has disbanded after 27 years of existence.

The action was taken at the final meeting June 16, according to Mrs. Carl Barber, treasurer. While 17 members remained on the roll only a few were willing to take leadership responsibilities, the spokesman said.

Mrs. Helen Cull was the last president of the auxiliary. Individual members are considering transferring to other auxiliary posts in the county.

Unitarian Church Grounds In Terra Linda Scene Of Wedding

Sheila Cain Foster and CPO Frank Winfred Bryant Jr. (USN), both of San Rafael, were remarried in an evening ceremony June 21 on the grounds of the Unitarian Church in Terra Linda.

Mrs. Bryant is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weston Mylchreest Cain of Kansas City., Mo., and her husband is the son of Mrs. Kitty Farrar of Bellflower, who attended the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by PO3 Cleo B. Ashworth (USCG) of Hamilton Air Force Base, and the matron of honor was Mrs. David Solock of Novato, sister of the bridegroom.

David Solock served as best man, and three children who took part in the ceremony were James Solock and Katori and Donna Ashworth.

The reception followed at the Unitarian Church. The couple will live in San Rafael until the bridegroom is reassigned by the Navy.

Mrs. Bryant is a graduate of Iowa High School and attended Trinity College in Washington, D.C. She is the sister of Weston M. Cain Jr., John W. Cain and Paula Crabbs.

Chief Bryant was graduated from Banning High School in Wilmington, Ga., is a career Navy man, and has been stationed in Oakland.

He is the brother of Mrs. Solock, Bob and Jack Farrar of Los Angeles, and Teddy Farrar of Long Beach.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Requiem For A Lost Husband; Abandoned Wife Takes Blame

DEAR HELEN:

Your printing this may not bring my man back to me, but perhaps it will show other women how to keep their husbands. . .

LOVE IS:

A man and a woman working together toward the same goals. It's taking and giving, sharing dreams, hopes and disappointments; letting him know he's Number One in your life.

It's taking care of him, even when he's not sick. It's little things like having his drink and newspaper ready when he comes home at night, and big things like never letting him doubt you're on his side all the way.

Love is looking over at a sleeping man and wondering how you could be so lucky.

It's a tap on the fanny; a little look that warms you from across the room; a kiss on the ear while you're cooking dinner; an unexpected phone call in the middle of the day, just to say he misses you; his saying "You're beautiful" at 6 a.m. when you know you're not. And it's having sense enough to appreciate all these things.

Love is knowing where it's at and keeping it there, because if you don't you'll be saying:

LONELINESS IS:

Coming home from work and finding your man has left you. There's no reason for it, you think —and then you think again: was it just that you took him for granted?

It's realizing how wrong you were, and that it is really your fault he left. It's calling all over the country, trying to locate him, but you can't.

It's crying as you look at an empty pillow. It's passing by the half-finished bar he started at Christmastime, but finished the children's toy chests instead. . .and remembering how you griped about the bar but never praised his intricate work on the chests.

It's wearing his old sweater and wishing it were his arms around you.

It's watching for a white Ford you're afraid you'll never see again; writing to him every night but not knowing where to send the letters.

Loneliness is wanting to show him how wrong you realize you were, and yearning to beg him back, on any terms.

In short, loneliness is — HELL — SANDI

DEAR SANDI:

I'm not sure you deserve all the sackcloth and ashes you're wearing so nobly. A man who shucks responsibility with a quick disappearing act can't be all good.

. . .Unless he's trying to make you aware of what you've just written. In which case, may your marriage improve with your sudden awareness — when he returns. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Reading the letter from "Inferiority Complex," who worried her husband ogled other women, I'm reminded of an incident that happened when I was first married. A neighbor remarked on how my husband "visually appreciated" a pretty girl who walked by.

I answered, "When my husband married me, he gave me his heart, not his eyeballs."

Twenty-nine years later, that still goes. I figure when he stops looking, he's dead, and he's far from that! Besides our three older daughters, we have a 5-year-old son, and our house is always jumping with happy activity, and love. — MRS. E.L.

Couple On Ship Cruise Honeymoon

Mary Elizabeth Clarke of Kentfield became the bride of Thomas Case Ver Hoef of Long Beach in a Saturday rite at Old St. Hilary's Church in Tiburon.

The daughter of Mrs. Charles Cushing Clarke of Kentfield and the late Mr. Clarke, the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, John Allen Clarke of Marblehead, Mass., for the Edwardian style ceremony. The bride's mother, her uncle, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Van Hoef of Long Beach composed the wedding party at the altar.

The ushers were the bride's brother, John Kimball Clarke of Kentfield, and Gregory Smith of Long Beach. Recorder and harpsichord music accompanied the ceremony.

The couple left for the reception at the Clarke home in their restored Mercedes Benz in keeping with the wedding theme.

After a cruise aboard the SS Arcadia, the couple will live in Eugene, Ore., where both will attend graduate school at the University of Oregon.

The bride is a graduate of the Katharine Branson School and the University of California at Santa Cruz. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. John Slaninka of Bellingham, Wash.

Thomas is a graduate of Lakewood High School and the University of California at Santa Cruz. James Walker Van Hoef of San Francisco is his brother.

Charitable Foundation Picks Slate

Mrs. Frank Abbott of San Rafael has been re-elected president of the Marin Charitable Foundation for 1974-75.

Other new officers who will serve with her are Mmes. William P. Murray Jr. of San Rafael, first vice president; Frank Barsocchini of Kentfield, second vice president; Robert M. Lee of San Rafael, recording secretary; Richard Rider of Mill Valley, corresponding secretary, and Emerson Best of Belvedere, treasurer.

The Charitable Foundation raises funds for county youth-oriented projects not being funded on a continuing basis. Mrs. Charles E. Turkington of San Rafael is receiving funding requests until Sept. 1 for the foundation.

Plans for the summer include sponsorship of a jazz concert at Sonoma Vineyards in Windsor on July 28 as a fund-raising event.

Laundry Area

A laundry area should be planned to include space for collecting and sorting clothes, washing them by hand and machine washing and drying. Space for ironing, folding and hanging clothes is useful, too.

Author Will Be Feature Of Talk Show

Conversations with Maya Angelou will be featured next week on "Jorie Talks" Monday through Friday at 8:30 a.m. on KTIM.

Highlights of a taping session at the Sonoma County home of the author and television broadcaster and her novelist husband, Paul de Feu, will be aired.

On Monday Miss Angelou will discuss the difficulty of growing up a black woman in America, noting the hazard of prostitution as an alternative to welfare or domestic work. Her near miss from a plunge into hard drugs will be recalled on Tuesday, and Wednesday's show will be her views on intermarriage, racial bias and sharing cultures. On Thursday she will look at the concept of the black matriarch, and Friday's focus will be on human potential.

Miss Angelou's second autobiographical novel, "Gather Together In My Name," published recently, traces her late teenage years. Her earlier childhood was described in "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings."

ON BEING BLACK

Car Trouble On Trip Has Surprise, Happy Ending

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

SALT LAKE CITY — If there is a "for real" fuel shortage, few people are being affected by it as they pile themselves, tennis rackets and swimsuits into automobiles to make their yearly motoring pilgrimage across America.

Even though time consuming, driving is the least expensive and most scenic way to crisscross the country. To insure a good trip, all one needs is a mechanically sound automobile. Since few are auto-repair experts, enter the mechanic.

Mechanic No. 1 (15-year-old neighbor kid): "Oh, that's not too serious, Mrs. (mechanically stupid) Motorist, you just need a new starter motor."

Mechanic No. 2 (service station owner): "Yeah, sounds like you need a new starter exchange. But you'll have to leave your car a few days. Lots of work involved."

Mechanic No. 3 (ZZ Auto Repair): "Trouble with the starter, huh? I'll have to look into the motor, but it shouldn't take more than a couple of hours."

TWO HOURS later Mrs. Motorist picks up her auto and shells out 50 bucks for a "functioning" starter exchange.

The next day, 45 miles out of the city limits, her auto stops.

Mechanic No. 4 (tow truck driver): "Lady, you need a new starter motor. This one's dead as a doornail."

Mechanic No. 5 (in small town just off the highway): "I'm sorry, ma'am, doesn't look like this starter exchange has had a wrench on it in three years."

In 20 minutes he has replaced the defective starter exchange and the car is purring like a kitten. After paying 40 bucks for a rebuilt starter exchange, 15 bucks for the core, 15 bucks for towing and 15 bucks for labor ($85 total), Mrs. Motorist is on her way — back to Mechanic No. 3 to collect her $85.

THAT NIGHT she mentally prepares for the battle with No. 3. She even considers taking an auto-repair class at the local summer school, although she knows she hasn't the time to acquire expertise in every area simply to protect herself from ripoffs.

Women are particularly vulnerable to auto-repair ripoffs. Few are adequately knowledgeable about automobiles. This, however, is a changing situation. Auto-repair classes in public schools are as popular among girls as typing classes.

The next morning, Mrs. Motorist is up at 6 a.m. prepared to rip into the ripoff mechanic. She is braced for the chauvinist comeback that since she knows nothing about cars she is wrong in her assessment of the situation.

The head mechanic listens quietly, quickly refunds her $85 and apologizes for the inconvenience.

That evening Mrs. Motorist uses her reservoir of energy (that she did not have to use to attack the mechanic) for writing a note of appreciation for the prompt and efficient settlement of her grievance to the repair shop. She figures this will surprise the mechanics at the shop as much as their behavior surprised her. Humanity may make it — even in this ripoff world.

Pianos Are Delicate; Need Special Care

Pianos are delicate instruments and need special care. Since the keys on most pianos today are made of plastic, a soft cloth slightly moistened with a soap and water solution should be used to wipe them.

It is best to use separate cloths for the black and white keys. Rinse with a clean damp cloth, then dry thoroughly, advises the soap and detergent association.

Chrysler Hikes Vehicle Costs

DETROIT (UPI) — The Chrysler Corp. yesterday increased new car and truck prices for the 10th time —by $60 —making the average cost of all 1974 models $568 higher now than when they were first introduced.

In a brief, three-paragraph statement, Chrysler said its steel costs have increased an average of $102 per vehicle since April 30, the same day the No. 3 automaker announced an average $122 price increase.

Chrysler's action followed by one day a price hike by U.S. Steel, the No. 1 producer, on cold rolled and hot rolled steel sheets.

Pinochet Promoted

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Gen. Augusto Pinochet, leader of Chile's junta, received the presidential sash of Chile yesterday, a day after he was appointed chief-of-state by decree.

Today is Friday, June 28, the 179th day of 1974 with 186 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1919, the Treaty of Versailles was signed, officially ending World War I.

In 1971, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the use of public funds for parochial schools was unconstitutional.

In 1972, President Nixon announced that no more draftees would be sent to Vietnam unless they volunteered.

A thought for the day: General of the Army Douglas MacArthur said, "In war, there is no substitute for victory."

Any Worthy Declarer Will Take Spade Finesse For Grand Slam

The human brain is a marvelous thing. It starts working the moment you are born and stops only when you are in the middle of a grand slam. Perhaps that accounts for the way this hand was played.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

South won the first trick with the king of clubs and thought of the old rule about finessing for a queen: "With eight, ever; with nine, never."

Translated from Victorian English, this means: Always finesse for the queen when you have eight cards in a suit; but never finesse for the queen when you have nine cards.

Happy to have a rule to follow, declarer led out the ace and king of spades. The queen failed to drop, and South eventually gave up a club trick.

The correct play is to cash one top spade just in case the queen happens to drop singleton. When nothing startling happens, South leads out his top cards in the red suits.

As it happens, West shows up with only two cards in each red suit. What's more, West has to discard four clubs on declarer's top cards. When South then cashes his ace of clubs, West must follow with the jack of clubs. That leaves West with only two cards.

If West is a genius at deceptive play, he may still have the nine of clubs and one small spade. But if West is the average good bridge player, his club plays will be honest, and his last two cards will be the missing two spades. Any declarer worthy of his salt would take the spade finesse and make the grand slam.

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A K J 10 5 3 2
♥ - 8 6 2
♦ - J 8

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

You are not quite strong enough for a jump to two spades, but you are far too strong for any preemptive jump in spades.

Hypnotist's Theft Case Is Dismissed

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — A grand theft charge against Los Angeles hypnotist Ronald Dante has been dismissed due to insufficient evidence.

Pima County Justice of the Peace A. Bates Butler dropped the charge yesterday after the defense contended successfully that the former husband of Acresss Lana Turner was arrested June 21 here without a warrant and without formal charges.

California authorities had messaged Arizona officers saying they suspected Danta of defrauding a Van Nuys electronics firm of $3,565 worth of equipment for his airplane.

Dante's wife, Elizabeth, earlier claimed she had paid receipts for the equipment in her possession.

Butler also dismissed a fugitive from justice accusation against the 54-year-old Dante who faces trial here July 16 on a charge of second degree murder for allegedly attempting to hire a man to kill Michael Dean, a hypnotist from San Diego.

Radio Station Pledges Tape, Letter Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — KPFK-FM officials said today they would continue to fight federal attempts to obtain from the radio station a tape recording from Patricia Hearst and a letter signed by the radical Weather Underground.

The station manager has served eight days in jail for contempt in the case.

With a gag order in the case lifted, station counsel David Finkel told a news conference the case raises questions of "whether radio will be used as a vehicle by law enforcement."

He pledged to continue court challenges to the FBI's subpoena for the tape received June 7 by the station from Miss Hearst and two other Symbionese Liberation Army members last week and for the letter.

Station Manager Will Lewis was jailed last Wednesday after he refused to surrender the materials or to answer a federal grand jury's questions about them.

FBI agents want to dust the tape and letter for fingerprints and trace their origin. Lewis has provided copies to agents. Asked if Lewis eventually might change his mind and testify, Finkel said, "Will Lewis is his own man. I can't speak for him."

The American Civil Liberties Union said it would support the station.

KPFK acting manager Ruth Hirschman said "the government has made little showing of its real need for the subpoenaed material." She also said the grand jury was being used as an arm of the FBI "to collect miscellaneous items and facts which might at some future time be used as evidence."

Earlier this week, directors of the Pacifica Foundation, owners of KPFK and three other stations, declined to say whether they had advised Lewis to give up the materials or to stay in jail while the contempt sentence is appealed. They cited the gag order as the reason for their silence.

Gas Prices Are Found High On Way To Fair

SEATTLE (UPI) — More than one-third of the gasoline stations checked along major tourist routes in Washington, Oregon and Idaho leading to Expo '74 were found to be overcharging their customers, the Federal Energy Office said yesterday.

Jack B. Robertson, regional administrator for the FEO, said of 341 stations checked by investigators, 131 were overcharging on gasoline.

Despite the large number of stations with illegal prices, Robertson said there was no indication that owners consciously intended to overcharge Expo visitors.

"The majority of the station operators whose gasoline prices were too high had simply erred in their computations," he said.

"This sort of error is easily understandable in light of the complexity of the pricing regulations for gasoline."

Robertson said station operators were "very cooperative in reducing prices immediately" after investigators told them their prices were illegal.

Robertson said FEO investigators will return to the stations which violated price ceilings to compute any refunds necessary.

Air Pollution Control Lag Ruled Out

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Air Resources Board does not have the authority to delay air pollution control measures because of the energy crisis, the State Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

The resources board last December voted to delay for one year the required installation of exhaust control devices on 1966-70 model vehicles because of the energy crisis.

The superme court, in a unanimous decision, said the devices must be ordred installed unless the legislature votes otherwise.

The resources board, which admitted the year delay would result in emission into the air of 100 tons of oxides and nitrogen daily, said the delay was justified by the energy crisis under a section of the law permitting adjustments for "extraordinary and compelling reasons."

The high court opinion, written by Justice Stanley Mosk, said these reasons must relate to the purposes of the act, not to the eneryg crisis.

The opinion said the legislature was aware installation of the air pollution control devices would increase gasoline consumption, but deliberately chose to give clean air priority over gas conservation.

Only the legislature can reverse that priority, the court said.

The board was ordered to rescind the order delaying the program and to enforce the anti-pollution legislation.

Chastity Belts Firm Goes Broke

LONDON (UPI) — Probably the only manufacturer of chastity belts in the world, the Halstead, Essex, firm of Anne Hugessen has been placed into liquidation by its creditors.

Officials said the company's failure has nothing to do with the permissive society.

Although some of the belts can in fact be used for the purpose for which they were designed in medieval times, Hugessen's belts were normally used as ice bucket and plant holders.

MUSIC AT RAMONA'S — There is good music Wednesday through Friday nights at Ramona's in San Rafael. Raul Lara is the regular entertainer. Occasionally, as shown here, he is joined by Betty Chapman of San Anselmo. They play and sing both Latin and contemporary music.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

San Rafael's Ramona's Continues In Tradition First Established

Mexican food is part of California's heritage.

To most of us who grew up in the west, at least an occasional tamale or enchilada is as welcome as a plate of spaghetti is to an Italian or smoked pork chops are to a German. Mexican food has its own characteristic flavor and seasoning that from time to time we seem to crave and after that we can return to our regular menu.

You can get it canned or frozen at your supermarket, but it's just not what you get when it's ordered at a restaurant and either eaten there or taken home to be enjoyed at your own table.

Ever notice how few Mexican restaurants ever sell out or go out of business? I can think of only two in Marin that have in all the time I've been writing this column. And both of them reopened —as Mexican restaurants.

One was where Ramona's is now on C Street, San Rafael. When I first knew the place it was called Manana. Then almost 15 years ago Ramona Stallings cast her black eyes on it, took it over — and it's never been the same since.

Ramona's filled a need in downtown San Rafael at that time for a restaurant serving authentic Mexican food with the atmosphere to go with it. Patrons immediately found it in the panuchos (tortilla shells filled with beans), the chalupas (tortilla shells filled with cheese and Mexican sausage), also in the green enchiladas and diminutive tamalitos which you could eat by the dozen if they were put in front of you. You'll still find it today in these things and in the Paella Valenciana a la Ramona's own recipe.

As good as a restaurant may be at the the start, it must improve over the years in some form or manner to remain popular. Thre are two groups in the eating-out public — those who like good things to continue unchanged, and those who are always looking for something new and different A restaurant must try to capture both of them.

Ramona's has undergone a certain mutation process since it first opened — not without a lot of hard work and tribulations on the part of its owner. And in doing so it has managed to hold a strong position in a field which now counts a dozen other restaurants in Marin selling Mexican food. Its tables continue to be filled and it is still picking up new customers.

Its interior is attractive and Ramona Stallings has not fallen into the trap of trying to make it too big. And five nights a week (Wednesdays through Sundays) there is nice music to go with the food. Entertainer Raul Lara is good at his job — a real musician and a teacher of guitarists.

You may be lucky enough some night to catch him here coupled with Betty Chapman of San Anselmo, who happens to be his team mate on Tuesday nights at the Mother Lode in San Francisco. Together they do all sorts of clever things on guitars and vocals besides just Latin music.

Undoubtedly one of Ramona's assets is her personality. She is tempestuous, has strong convictions, doesn't hesitate to say what they are and possibly has made some enemies because of them. But she has helped a lot of people and has more friends, I think, than anyone I know in the business.

TECHNICALLY, Main Street in Tiburon might be said to be only one block long. That's because there are no street intersections from beginning to end, which is about 1,500 feet. Some Tiburon businessmen refer to it as the shortest Main Street of any city in America.

It may well be. There doesn't seem to be any way of checking. But it sure has a lot of major restaurants concentrated in about 500 feet. In the business straightway, which is about a third of the entire length, there are seven of them — The Windjammer, The Dock, Sam's Harbor Restaurant, Thirty-Nine Main and Tiburon Tommie's all on one side, and El Borro and Rooney's Sidewalk Cafe on the other.

That should be some kind of a record.

AND SPEAKING of Tiburon Tommie's, it's just 15 years this month since Tommie Cox opened his upstairs luau room.

THIS IS THE TYPE of story you might think was made up. But it did actually happen in one Marin French restaurant sometime ago, when it first opened. Looking over a French menu reminded me of it.

The owner's wife told the story on herself and she shall be nameless so it will not cause her any embarassment. She speaks excellent English now, but in those days she was not long from France. She had a lot to learn, some of it in food terminology, which she was picking up on the job.

She was working the day shift and was thrown for a loss when a customer ordered a snail for lunch — one snail and a cup of coffee.

The customer was equally confused when after pondering the matter she informed him in her broken speech that the minimum order for snails was six.

I just don't remember now — or maybe I never did find out whether he eventually got what he ordered or had to settle for six escargots, steamed and cooked in a wine sauce.

BEND AN EAR when the voice of authority speaks.

It seems that Santa Rosa finally has a good seafood place. It's the Captain's Table and is located at College Avenue and Fourth Street, on the corner. It's not only a fresh fish market, but also a seafood restaurant and is cleverly decorated. And it has a wine and beer

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Prancing nude through a Pancake House has cost the son of the American Bar Association president and the daughter of a former Florida Board of Regents chairman $102 each.

Chesterfield Harvey Smith Jr., 22, Bartow, Fla., and Jacquelyn Kibler, 21, Lakeland, both Florida State University students, pleaded no contest to disorderly conduct charges Wednesday night before city judge Dennis Fontaine.

They had been charged with indecent exposure but were allowed to plead no contest to the lesser charge and pay $102 fines.

It's recommended by Stan and Ursula Valan of the Grotto in San Rafael who are always trying out other seafood restaurants on their postman's holiday and discovered it this week. They should know one when they see one.

Some day, of course, the Captain's Table will have competition. Sabella's hasn't given up plans to open another place in Santa Rosa.

WILLIAM A. RICHARDSON'S DECK HOUSE RESTAURANT AND SAUCELITO OYSTER BAR — which simply must be the longest name of any restaurant in Marin County and maybe the Bay Area (it also has a long oyster bar) — has acquired a new head chef.

He is none other than Antonio Guanche, who for many years headed the kitchen at Alexis and also at L'Etoile in San Francisco. He's already made several changes in the menu and undoubtedly will make still more.

RUBINI'S in Fairfax will close next week for its annual vacation and reopen on Wednesday, July 10. Displaying aritst then for the month will be Joan Cook.

Logical Reason

WINNSBORO, Tex. (UPI) — This Texas town was named for an early settler, J.E. Wynn, but the local newspaper editor changed the spelling because he did not have the letter "y."

Amtrak To Reopen Major Route

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Boston-Chicago passenger train service will be reinstated and a second Norfolk to Cincinnati route will be opened, Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar announced yesterday.

Schedules and opening dates for the new services will be announced later by Amtrak, the semi-public corporation which runs most of the country's passenger trains and will operate the new service, Brinegar said.

The Boston-Chicago route was dropped by Amtrak when it was formed in May 1971.

Brinegar was ordered by Congress to initiate at least one new experimental service in 1974 and one in 1975.

Selection of the Boston-Chicago route capped several months of intense lobbying by numerous states and cities wanting the new 1974 service. Brinegar said the route was selected because it would "serve the largest potential population" of any other prospective route.

The train will run over the old New York Central "water level route" from Chicago to Albany,, and the Old Boston & Albany to Boston, all now part of the Penn Central.

Cleveland and Erie, Pa., will regain passenger service for the first time in more than a year. Amtrak briefly operated a New York-Chicago train through Cleveland and Erie, but dropped it when several states failed to pay their share of the costs under a plan that allowed states to gain passenger service by paying two-thirds of the losses.

The train will run between Boston and Chicago by way of Albany, Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, South Bend, Ind., Chicago.

The Transportation Department was ordered by Congress in a 1974 supplemental appropriations bill to operate the second Norfolk-Cincinnati route, largely at the insistence of Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., and Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va.

Amtrak already runs a Newport News, Va.-Cincinnati-Chicago train over the Chesapeake & Ohio through Charlottesville, Va., and Charleston, W.Va.

Heating Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill said today Americans should be able to heat their homes adequately and use gasoline at normal rates next winter.

Rainy Road Risk

NEW YORK (AP) — George E. Wilson, whose company provides safe-driving information for its car and truck fleet leasing clients, says rain probably plays a part in two-thirds of all bad weather highway crashes.

DDT Spraying Effort On Tussock Moth Said Good

COERU D'ALENE, Ida. (UPI) — High Agriculture Department official said yesterday initial samplings of the DDT spraying effort in the Pacific Northwest to kill the Tussock moth showed the effort was very effective.

Robert Long, assistant secretary of agriculture, said the spraying has shown about a 90 per cent mortality rate among the Tussock moth larvae.

Long, after returning from a flight over moth-infested forests of Northern Idaho, said it was impossible to get a 100 per cent kill of the insects which have destroyed over 800,000 acres of Pacific Northwest timber during the past two years.

However, he said the spraying was a delaying tactic and by the time any residual insects would regenerate, the forest service expects to have alternative means to control the moth. Long said he believes that the forest service is winning the battle against the Tussock moth.

"We expect to have some significant results by the end of the year which will allow us to use methods of control other than chemical," the assistant secretary said.

Reform Candidate Fails In AMA Leadership Bid

CHICAGO (UPI) — An effort to wrest the American Medical Association's primary attention away from the political arena and into the medical laboratory failed yesterday as the House of Delegates elected Dr. Max H. Parrott as the AMA's president-elect.

Parrott, of Portland, Ore., edged out Dr. Richard S. Wilbur of Lake Forest, Ill., in balloting by the house, the policy-making body of the 160,000-member AMA.

The AMA also elected its first Alaskan to an executive position. Named as a vice president for a on-year term was Dr. Joseph M. Ribar of Fairbanks.

Parrott, associated with the powerful American Medical Political Action Committee, will serve as president-elect for one year before ascending to the AMA presidency next June.

Wilbur repeatedly has sought to turn the AMA's attention from the political arena toward medicine's scientific aspets. He ran as a reform candidate seeking to restore what he charged was the association's faltering public credibility.

Parrott told a news conference after his election that he was equally interested in the scientific end of the profession, but outlined political issues which the association faces.

Parrott noted that the election was close, but said he did not believe it would divide the association.

No vote tabulation was released following the secret balloting but it was learned that Parrott gained the post by just 121-119. The house later made the election unanimous.

Parrott indicated his support of the now official AMA position calling for amendment rather than repeal of the watchdog law which sets up groups of doctors to monitor quality and cost of federally subsidized health care.

The president-elect said the AMA could garner increased public credibility by moving toward constructive amendment of the law setting up PSROs — professional standards review organizations.

"Going one-on-one is Washington isn't credible at all . . . Things like medicredit gain us lots of credibility," Parrott said, referring to the AMA's proposal for a program of voluntary health insurance using tax credits.

The loss marked the second time Wilbur has run an unsuccessful reform campaign against the political action committee.

Earlier this year, the AMA's board of trustees, in an extraordinary 15 ballots, chose Dr. James H. Sammons over Wilbur as the association's executive vice president. That campaign has been widely referred to as the "Watergate of American medicine," and there have been numerous allegations of impropriety surrounding the voting.

Some published reports said that election campaign was engineered from the prison cell of Dr. John R. Kernodle, former AMA board chairman and power in the political action committee. Kernodle is serving a term in the federal penitentiary for bank fraud.

Cosmos Fired As Nixon Arrives

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviets said today they launched an unmanned Cosmos earth satellite into orbit on the first day of President Nixon's summit visit, their third space shot in as many days.

The announcement from the news agency Tass said Cosmos-663 went aloft yesterday "to continue space exploration." A similar launch was reported Wednesday.

There was still no official indication whether the Soviets intended to mark Nixon's visit with an attempt to send cosmonauts to the Salyut-3 space station orbited Tuesday.

Two previous tries to duplicate the U.S. Skylab program have failed. The latest Skylab mission saw three American astronauts spend a record 84 days in their station.

Uncle Sam Curbs Come-Ons For Young

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission served notice today of plans to prohibit promotion of products aimed at children through offers of prizes or other gimmicks in television commercials.

The proposal would prevent advertisers from pushing a product by "referring to an offer of a premium such as a prize, toy, game or other promotional device having significat appeal for children under 12 years of age and unrelated to the merits of the product or service being promoted."

Protesters Halt Russian Dancers

NEW YORK (UPI) — A small group of demonstrators throwing eggs, flour and stink bombs interrupted the Soviet Moiseyev Ballet Dance Company performance at the Metropolitan Opera last night.

Two members of the orchestra were hit with eggs.

Tom Bradley: Low-Profile Mayor

By JACK V. FOX

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The chopper used to rise with a thudding racket from a ledge of City Hall and people would look up and think, "well, there goes Mayor Yorty someplace or other."

Tom Bradley will have been the mayor of Los Angeles for a year come Monday but he never once has used the helicopter.

Bradley has given no suggestions to the President on foreign affairs. Although he gets 80 invitations a day from around the country, he has made only three speeches outside the city. The publicity torrent from the mayor's office has dried to a trickle.

In fact, Bradley has kept such a low profile that —were it possible for a six-foot, three-inch 200-pound first black chief executive in the city's history to be transparent —he could almost be called the invisble mayor.

Bradley doesn't mind that, at all, but he feels very strongly that the accomplishments of his administration in its first year in office are anything but invisible.

In an interview on the eve of his inauguration anniversary, Bradley made these points:

Los Angeles was hit harder by the energy shortage than any city in the United States. There was a 48 per cent shortage of the fuel oil necessary to power its generating plants.

TOM BRADLEY
Never uses chopper

But the city weathered the crisis, partly because of a voluntary citizens' reduction of electrical use that reached 19 per cent.

The city for the first time is moving in an orderly way toward building a mass transit system. He somewhat touchily rejects suggestions that the federal government will not back a rail-type system and says the money will be forthcoming in Washington when the time is ripe.

His "open house" in which once a month he makes himself personally available to anyone who drops in have been a big success. They have drawn up to 360 people in one day and left people with the idea that "if they really needed to come in and see the mayor they could."

For the first time in years, he says, the mayor's office is working in a spirit of cooperation with the city council and other elected officials of the county, state and federal governments.

When he was running for election against Yorty, Bradley said the fact that he was black was not "relevant." He was asked whether actually it had not affected his conduct in office, the reaction of other people to him.

"No," he said. "Why should it?

"I deal with problems and the solution of those problems does not turn on whether I or some member of my administration is black, white, blue or green.

"I think we have clearly demonstrated in this city that people have now been able to disregard the question of color. I suppose in the first three months of my administration those who were skeptical of my administration were looking critically to see whether I was going to be fair and responsive to the entire city.

"I think that certainly within three months, even perhaps a shorter period, there was a sufficient reaction that expressed that sense of confidence that Tom Bradley was the mayor and so I no longer get this statement of Tom Bradley, the black mayor."

Bradley insists he is not thinking about a political future beyond the present office. He says he pledged to serve two four-year terms as mayor and intends to try to do so.

If Bradley had any wish to play to the black community, he took no move in that direction when some black community members criticized "overreaction" by the police force in the shootout at a SLA hideout where six persons were killed.

"The police acted completely properly," he said. "They asked for surrender and threw in tear gas and the response was automatic weapon fire. It was clear to me that it was just a matter of human nature that those officers would then respond with their own fire."

Bradley says he has been putting in an average of 15 hours a day seven days a week but he doesn't feel "overextended."

The mayor says he no doubt will play some part in state Democratic party strategy in the forthcoming elections for governor and other state offices but that his role has not yet been defined.

Peru Threatens To Halt Airline

LIMA (UPI) — The Peruvian government threatened yesterday to cut off all of Braniff International's 32 weekly flights to Lima's Jorge Chavez International airport unless the AeroPeru is permitted to make cut-rate flights to the United States.

Gen. Raul Meneses Arata, Minister of Transport and Comunications, wrote to the vice president of Braniff for Peru, Leopold Pflucker.

The U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board wants to prohibit fares cheaper than those charged by Braniff and all other airlines, and to prohibit AeroPeru from taking passengers to the United States from points further south than Lima.

RED CARPET REALTORS® COUNSEL CORNER

Dear Counsellor:
My family and I have outgrown our home and plan to sell this Spring. In looking to certain minor items which need my attention, I am not certain what I should paint, clean and fix in order to effect a fast sale at top dollar. In addition, I have no idea what my home is worth on today's market. Can you give me any guidelines?
Arthur H., Fairfax

Dear Arthur H.
Many homeowners are undecided as to what corrective measures they should take which will make their home more saleable without an excessive amount of labor and money. Be assured that the average buyer will want his new home to have a water tight roof, clean carpeting, clean walls and a good fresh feeling upon entering. Don't overlook weeds, animal residue, leaky faucets, lights which don't work and a cluttered garage. Check with your insurance agent on that cracked shower door. Make certain dirt and planter boxes don't touch the foundation. Your nearest Red Carpet, Realtors office will be happy to give you a team appraisal at no obligation and will certainly be able to furnish you with comparable sales in your area.

Williams: Angels Are Better Than Record

That's not how Williams modestly put it, but that was the gist of his comments after succeeding Winkles as manager of the last place California Angels yesterday.

"No reflection on Bobby Winkles, who I think is a good manager, but the club is better than its record indicates," Williams said.

Angels' General Manager Harry Dalton obviously concurs with that statement.

Williams will try to start proving it Monday night against his former ball club, the Oakland A's, who he guided to world championships the past two years.

Williams will be able to send flame-throwing righthander Nolan Ryan at the A's, but the heavy-hitting Sal Bando, Reggie Jackson and Joe Rudi will be on the other side.

The 45-year-old Williams not only has managed Oakland to consecutive world championships, but also lifted Boston to the American League pennant in his rookie managerial season in 1967 after the Red Sox had finished in ninth place the previous year.

DICK WILLIAMS

Frank Robinson, who was embroiled in a personality clash with Winkles, said, "I rate Williams near the top as managers go. He's a tough, nonsense type of guy who has a habit of turning things around. The highest tribute to a player or a manager is to call him a winner. Williams is a winner."

The financial terms of Williams' contract were not announced, but it was estimated to be in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Williams said, "I'm quite elated. I said it would have to be an outstanding offer and it was. It's the best I've ever had. It was something I just couldn't turn down."

Williams' signing concluded a curious contractural circus which began after last year's World Series when he tried to break his Oakland contract in order to manage the New York Yankees. A's owner Charles O. Finley got a court injunction blocking the switch and then AL President Joe Cronin decided the issue by refusing to recognize the contract Williams had signed with the Yankees.

After Cronin's decision Finley said he would free Williams from his contract with the A's to manage any major league club except the Yankees.

Finley got a San Francisco federal court judge to rescind the two-year injuction last night, clearing the way for the Angels to hire Williams.

BOBBY WINKLES
'No reflection'

"The job of firing me was handled as though I were a mystery guest or something," Winkles said. "Nobody ever told me anything.

"The other night, for instance, there was a summit meeting between Dalton and owners Gene Autry and Bob Reynolds, and the only way I knew about it was that Reggie Jackson told me."

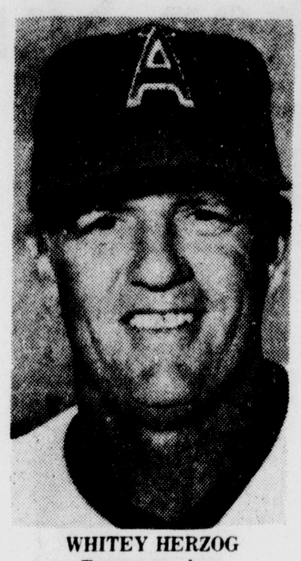
Winkles said it was obvious to him he was going to be fired since June 15th, the player trading deadline.

"...I see no reason why they should have waited until now to do it. Before the trading deadline, I very strongly urged that we make some changes, and that urging, or plea, or whatever you want to call it, fell on deaf ears."

One of the changes he had asked for was to trade Robinson. The Angels worked out a deal with the New York Yankees, but the 38-year-old player refused to approve it.

"The ball club was never completely run by me," Winkles said. "Dalton made all the decisions on players, and I think everybody knew I was uncomfortable with Frank Robinson around."

Commenting on Robinson, Williams said, "I think Frank is a real pro, an outstanding player, a real team leader. I'll use all the knowledge he has. Frank helped Reggie Jackson a whole lot and in doing that he helped me."



WHITEY HERZOG
Temporary boss

Dalton said, "Whenever you build a championship organziation there are certain essential pieces that you have to fit together. In my judgment, Dick Williams as a manager is one of those essential pieces."

IN BELVEDERE TENNIS

Sue Beatty Is Marin Survivor

And then there was one.

Tiburon's Sue Beatty is the lone Marinite remaining in the 85th annual Pacific Coast Juniors Tennis Championships at the Belvedere Tennis Club.

She will meet top-seeded Susan Mehmedbasich of El Cerrito for the Girls' 18 title tomorrow at 11:30 a.m.

Four other Marin youngsters were eliminated from the tournament yesterday.

In Boys' 18, Doug Carlisle fell to third-seeded Francisco Gonzales of Puerto Rico, 6-0, 7-5, and Tiburon's Cary Stansbury was beaten, 6-4, 6-4, by Mark Vines of Richmond, Va.

In Girls' 16, Greenbrae's Beth Fernbacher was finally stopped, 6-2, 6-2, by fifth-seeded Linda Siegel of Piedmont. In previous rounds, Fernbacher had upset second-seeded Susan Brown of Oakland (6-7, 6-3, 6-2) and eighth-seeded Susan Whittaker of Arlington, Mass. (2-6, 6-3, 7-6).

In Boys' 14, Charles Bolcom of Belvedere lost to second-seeded Bradley Gilbert of Piedmont, 6-2, 6-2.

An interesting situation occurred today in Boys' 12, where it was Pardoe against Pardoe for the championships.

Top-seeded Perry of Salt Lake City yesterday beat Talbot Davis of Texas, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, while his brother Derek, the eighth-seed, topped Dave Taber of Los Altos, 7-5, 6-10.

Meanwhile, the top-seeded players in Boys' and Girls' 18 had a little trouble yesterday.

Rocky Maguire of Woodside ousted Les Topp of Seattle, 6-3, 6-4, but said afterwards "I'm not playing well. I haven't played much since the junior college season ended, so that may explain it."

Mehmedbasich was extended in the second set by Beth Norton of Fairfield, Conn., but won, 6-2, 7-5, to earn the right to meet Beatty in the title match.

Results yesterday:

Boys 18 (Quarter-finals) — Peter Morris d. Junie Chatman, 6-2, 2-6, 7-5; Francisco Gonzales d. Doug Carlisle, 6-0, 7-5; Mark Vines d. Cary Stansbury, 6-4, 6-4; Rocky Maguire d. Les Topp, 6-3, 6-4.

Boys 16 — Bill Bartlett d. Scott McCahn, 3-6, 7-5, 7-5; Neal Carl d. Rodney Lee, 6-1, 6-3; Paul Jaqua d. Mike Baker, 6-7, 6-0, 7-6; Mark Cullers d. Leonard Ramirez, 6-2, 6-0.

Boys 14 — Mike Jee d. Mark Strem, 6-1, 6-0; Craig Morrison d. David Cowan, 6-2, 6-3; Dan Jaqua d. Devin Sconyers, 6-3, 6-4; Bradley Gilbert d. Charles Bolcom, 6-2, 6-2.

Boys 12 (Semis) — Derek Pardoe d. Greg Holmes, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4; Perry Pardoe d. Talbot Davis, 7-5, 6-1.

Girls 18 (Semis) — Sue Beatty d. Lisa Nard, 6-2, 6-2; Susan Mehmedbasich d. Beth Norton, 6-2, 7-5.

Girls 16 — Linda Siegel d. Beth Fernbacher, 6-2, 6-2; Jean Hepner d. Cindi Payne, 6-2, 6-2.

Girls 14 — Mareen (Peanut) Loute d. Heidi Rose, 6-1, 6-2; Charlene Murphy d. Stacey Naugle, 6-1, 6-2.

Girls 12 — Robin White d. Hannah Somerville, 6-1, 6-4; Wendy Driver d. Erika Smith, 6-2, 6-4.

Softball Laugher At Cow Palace

The Channel 7 people will be sponosring the annual San Francisco Police Activities League (PAL) softball game tomorrow night in the Cow Palace and that's always a fun time for kids 6 to 60.

The game has been sponsored by KSFO but things have been changing quite a bit since Don Sherwood returned to the station, this time as program manager. He wanted to hold up on the game until the fall but there would have been trouble getting the Cow Palace then.

About the time the game was to be canceled, the Channel 7 staff picked up the ball and decided to choose a team of its own to oppose Reno Barsocchini's V.I.P.s. This team would be known as the Lucky 7s.

O'Reilly and Hunter, needing some talented players to fill their roster, started searching the Bay Area for some of the best softball players around. They know talent when they see it. That's why they picked me for their team.

Oh, there are some lesser names on the team, such as Bobby Riggs, David Hartman, Karl Malden and Mike Douglas. Some 49er players like Frank Nunley, Dick Witcher, Ted Kwalick, Len Rohde, Randy Beisler and Gene Washington will be on our side, as well as Raiders Daryle Lamonica, Don Milan, George Buehler, Clarence Davis, Geroge Atkinson, Willie Brown, Dan Conners, Tony Cline, Charlie Smith and Otis Sistrunk.

Joe Kapp will be playing for the Lucky 7s and so will Warrior coach Al Attles and players Nate Thurmond and Cazzie Russell. Archie Robostoof of the San Jose Earthquakes soccer team is with us, too.

The other side? I hear they have a guy by the name of Joe DiMaggio.

Yes, it should be quite a game. I've always wanted to be on the same team with Bobby Riggs when a woman (Ms. Hunter) is one of the coaches. I understand Riggs is going to make quite an entrance.

Since the game has netted between $25,000 and $50,000 for the PAL in past years, it's good it will be able to continue. The pre-game activities start at 6 p.m. and the game itself at 7. Cost is $2, children under 12 free if accompanied by parents.

SHARON WALSH has chosen to remain in the Big Apple. The San Rafael tennis player, currently in England for the Wimbledon tourney, has signed a contract to finish the year with the New York Sets of World Team Tennis. She originally signed for the final three weeks of the first half to see if WTT was really for her. Apparently she thinks it is, obviously improving since her performance in Oakland against the Golden Gaters.

In Wimbledon, she will be teaming with Mike Machette of Belvedere in mixed doubles and Patti Hogan of LaJolla in women's doubles in addition to her singles.

IF YOU ARE A SOCCER buff, mark Nov. 10 on your calendar. That's the day the Marin Youth Soccer Association is sponsoring a game between University of San Francisco and Cal at Berkeley, the match to be held at College of Marin's field. It's the fourth straight year for a major collegiate game to be held in Marin (Cal-Stanford 1971, USF-St. Louis '72, and USF-UCLA '73).

ERIN MURPHY of Kentfield has been picked to be poster child for the first World Invitational Martial Arts Championships, to help the cystic fibrosis fund, Saturday and Sunday at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium.

START OF RHUBARB — Royals' runner Al Cowens slid into third base on batter Fred Patek's grounder to second during the fourth inning last night in Kansas City. Oakland A's third baseman Sal Bando protested umpire Bill Kunkel's (background) safe call. Kunkel ruled that Bando made the tag too late, and the umpire's decision stood.

No Need To Worry In 9th Vs. A's

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Here they come again," thought Kansas City Royals reliever Marty Pattin when the Oakland A's put a runner in scoring position in the top of the ninth.

The A's were trailing by one run, and Pattin already had seen Oakland stage too many stirring comebacks against the Royals this year. But this time the rally fell short and Pattin, armed with fast balls galore, hurled Kansas City to a 5-4 victory over the A's last night.

Pattin gave up only three hits and one run in 6⅔ innings of relief. The Royals were trailing 3-0 when Pattin, now 2-3, relieved Lindy McDaniel, with one out in the third.

The Royals exploded for all five of their runs in the fourth against Ken Holtzman, now 8-9. The first eight batters reached first base safely as the Royals scored on a two-run triple by Hal McRae, a single by Al Cowens and two errors.

Gene Tenace and Joe Rudi singled for Oakland in the second before McDaniel walked Bourque and Dick Green, forcing in one run. A single by Bert Campaneris, a double by Sal Bando and another single by Rudi produced two more runs in the third.

Tenace led off the sixth with a triple and scored Oakland's final run on a sacrifice fly by Pat Bourque.

The victory moved the Royals into a three-way tie for second place in the American League West with Texas and Chicago, 3½ games behind the A's.

The series continues tonight

Williams Glad Nolan On Team

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Even before Dick Williams accepted the job, he savored the idea of having Nolan Ryan on his side.

"It's better to watch him pitch on your side than to be on the opposite side," Williams said yesterday "I know. I've been on the opposite side many times."

Now Williams will be on his side.

Shortly before the Angels met the Texas Rangers last night, Williams accepted the offer to replace Bobby Winkles, who was fired earlier in the day.

Williams won't join the team until next week, but Ryan showed why Williams likes him by firing a one-hit shutout to give the Angels a 5-0 victory.

It was the fourth one-hitter of Ryan's career to go with two no-hitters last season. Ironically, in all four one-hitters, the only hit has come in the first inning. Alex Johnson got the hit this time.

After Johnson's two-out single in the first inning, Ryan retired the next 13 Rangers before walking Toby Harrah to open the sixth. He then retired the final 12 batters to wrap up his 10th victory in 16 decisions.

Ryan, pitching with four days rest, didn't think it was one of his super performances. "My fast ball wasn't popping. It hurts my performance not to pitch every fourth day," he said.

In the other games, Minnesota downed Chicago 6-3, Milwaukee beat Detroit 5-1, Cleveland edged Boston 2-1 and Kansas City nipped Oakland 5-4.

Twins 6, White Sox 3

Rod Carew is continuing his bid to become baseball's first .400 hitter in over three decades. He collected two singles and a triple in five times at bat to boost his average to an even .400 as the Twins downed the White Sox.

Brewers 5, Tigers 1

Deron Johnson is thriving again on a change of uniform. Hitting only .195 for Oakland before swapped to the Brewers in a waiver deal last week, Johnson hit his second homer in as many games with Milwaukee, a grand slam that powered the Brewers past the Tigers.

Indians 2, Red Sox 1

Jim Perry became the 69th major lague pitcher to win his 200th game as Cleveland edged Boston. Perry went 8 1-3 innings to get credit for the win.

St. Louis Star Like Bob Gibson

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

If Lynn McGlothen continues to pitch the way he has so far this season, National League batters may think there are two Bob Gibsons in the St. Louis Cardinals' starting rotation.

The 6-foot 2, 195-pound McGlothen became the winningest pitcher in the National League last night when he won his 11th game by four-hit- ting the New York Mets, 6-1.

A strong-armed righthander who throws heat from the opening pitch to the last out, McGlothen's pitching style and technique are noted as being strikingly similar to Gibson's. In addition to being the same height and weight, both pitchers work rapidly on the mound.

McGlothen held the Mets, the NL East cellar-dwellers, to three singles, while striking out seven, until pinch-hitter Ron Hodges walked in the sixth inning and Cleon Jones followed with a triple. McGlothen's fifth complete game, which raised his record to 11-3, tied him with Sonny Siebert for the club lead in that department.

Ted Simmons and Joe Torre drove in two runs each to pace the Cards' hitting attack off four Met pitchers. Starter and loser Ray Sadecki, now 4-3, was kayoed in the second inning on a four-run uprising triggered by consecutive doubles by another ex-Red Sox, Reggie Smith, Simmons, and Torre.

In other National League games, Cincinnati downed Atlanta 6-3, Chicago shaded Montreal 5-4, and San Francisco trimmed San Diego 4-2.

Reds 6, Braves 3

Shortstop Dave Concepcion pounded a three-run homer to lift the Cincinnati Reds to victory over the Atlanta Braves and knuckleball pitcher Phil Niekro, now 8-6.

Cubs 5, Expos 4

Jose Cardenal drove in two runs with a single and a double and rookie pitcher Oscar Zamora bailed out starter Bill Bonham to earn his first major league save as the Chicago Cubs defeated the Montreal Expos.

D'Acquisto, Giants Are Happy Together

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Four years ago, the Detroit Tigers were interested in drafting San Diego prep pitcher John D'Acquisto as an outfielder because of his hitting.

D'Acquisto is happy that didn't happen and so are the San Francisco Giants. The 22-year-old right-hander kept them from sliding into last place last night when he pitched a six-hitter and scored twice as the Giants beat San Diego 4-2 and snapped a six-game losing streak.

"This was an important victory for us," said D'Acquisto, mindful that the Padres would have moved into fifth place, two percentage points ahead of the Giants, if they had made it a sweep of the four-game series.

The Giants are back home tonight at 8 o'clock, hosting the division leading Los Angeles Dodgers. The Dodgers have come-from-behind to win five of their last six games, including three against the Giants last weekend. All the triumphs were by one run, scored in the ninth inning.

Ron Bryant, 2-9, will start tonight for the Giants against Tommy John, 10-2, of the Dodgers.

Youngsters up to age 14 who attend the Giant-Dodger game at Candlestick Park tomorrow at 1 p.m. will receive a free T-Shirt in San Francisco orange and black on Giant T-Shirt Day.

No One Willing To Claim Gold World Soccer Cup

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — No one yet is willing to claim the 14-inch high $40,000 gold World Soccer Cup.

The obvious outsiders were eliminated in the first round and the eight teams that remain are talented enough not to be written off by rival coaches.

Said Fritz Walter, West Germany's captain when it won the Cup in 1954, "Every team qualifying for the Cup is bound to have excellent players. But skill alone is not enough. The extra dimension to triumph over an otherwise equal opponent is fighting spirit."

Although all four opening games Wednesday ended in clear-cut victories, eight matches remain and the competition still is surprisingly open.

In Group A, Holland, 4-0 victors over Argentina, will meet East Germany tomorrow, probably the fittest side in the tournament.

Dutch coach Rhinus Michels already is complaining about the psychological burden of being tournament favorite and, with East Germany burning for revenge from its 1-0 defeat by Brazil, the game could be a tight one.

The other Group A games brings together two South American sides for the first time in the 1974 finals—Brazil and Argentina.

On paper, Brazil must be favored, but its form to date has not been impressive and Argentina Coach Vladislao Cap said, "We can do it. We know the Brazilians well. We have nothing to lose and we will play offensively."

It could work out that the decider in Group A will await the July 3 match between Brazil and Holland.

The Argentinian coach's personal choice for the finals was Holland and West Germany.

The West Germans blew hot and cold until the second round started when they hit the ironhard Yugoslavs for a 2-0 win. But their Group B match tomorrow confronts them with the talented and unpredictable Swedes, who were hardluck losers to Poland Wednesday, 1-0.

The other game brings the East Europeans together, Poland and Yugoslavia.

Poland, with four wins in four games, has the best record in the tournament, but showed some sluggishness against Sweden.

PLEASANTON — Attorneys for a pregnant woman, who claims heavyweight champion George Foreman beat and kicked her, say they will file a $5 million civil suit against the world heavyweight champion.

Kent Russell, an attorney with Melvin Belli and Associates, said yesterday the suit will be filed in Alameda County Superior Court in Oakland on behalf of Pamela Clay, 19.

Miss Clay told sheriff's deputies and doctors at the Valley Valley Memorial Hospital in more that Foreman kicked, beat and tried to strangle her.

Dr. Charles Lahr, who saw the woman after the alleged assault, said he feared Miss Clay would miscarry. She was six months pregnant at the time.

NFL Strike Set Monday; Picket Lines Wednesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Football League Players Association geared up today for a strike to begin Monday but a spokesman said no picket lines would be set up until two days later.

Ed Garvey, NFLPA executive director, conferred with the executive board of the players union throughout yesterday, mapping strike strategy. Negotiations with the owners have broken off with no signs they will resume in time to avert the strike.

Garvey said the first picket line would shape up in San Diego Wednesday when the Chargers have summoned their rookies to camp. Picket signs are being distributed to players in all 25 league cities along with T-shirts featuring a brawny clenched fist and the players' strike slogan: "No Freedom—No Football."

Veteran members of the Washington Redskins who have been working out individually at the team's conditioning facilities at Redskin complex 20 miles from Washington plan to switch their workouts to Georgetown University beginning Monday as a strike gesture.

Both sides in the dispute were viewing the rookie turnout in San Diego for the first significant sign of support.

All but a few veterans were reported ready to honor the union's picket lines as they did in a similar strike situation four seasons ago.

But the rookies and free agents don't become eligible for membership in the players' union until the regular season begins and can report if they wish to pre-season training camps beginning next month.

Should enough of them report, the NFL clubs could field teams to play their preseason schedules although without any established stars in the line-up. However, a boycott by a substantial segment of the draftees and other newcomers could virtually cancel the exhibition games, costing the owners not only revenues from the gate but television and radio money as well.

The players and owners sent representatives to the Coaches All-Star game at Lubbock, Texas, last week to present their point of view.

Another major focal point will be Evanston, Ill., where the College All-Star team is to train for their game with the defending Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins which kicks off the NFL season in Chicago July 26.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Breaking The Ice Off Party Boat

It looked for awhile in the early part of this week that striper fishing was coming to a standstill in San Pablo Bay. Last week all slots in the Lord of the Sea Derby were filled. On Monday, the only fish I heard of being taken was by Rex Morgan's wife, Chick. It was a nice 17-pounder. It wasn't registered for a weekly prize.

On Tuesday, Bruce Kline caught three with a high fish of 14½ pounds, it might be a winner.

I FINALLY BROKE the ice this week with a 16-pounder, but I didn't enter it either.

I had taken a ride with Cliff Aufinson who lives in Sleepy Hollow and runs the party boat, the Bass Tub II. He fished the Yellow Bluff area near Sausalito, and the south tower of the Golden Gate Bridge. For a couple of hours, I couldn't buy a hit, then finally Mike the bait boy and assistant captain, came by, gave my rod a couple of shakes and I had the 16-pounder on.

I don't know what he did, but I had been shaking that rod too. It beats me! Cliff fishes the fast rips in the above areas and really takes some big lunkers. This day, the fishermen aboard landed about 15. It's hard work pumping that live bait up and down but certainly pays off with big fish.

If you want to see fishermen doing things that are unbelievable, take a party boat ride to the south tower. One boat had two 40-pounders! And it's worthwhile going with Cliff because that man is a really funny character. Before leaving the dock, he gives the group a long sermon about fishing. It's a riot to hear. He does a lot of things while underway too. He gave one blonde, the bait girl on one of the other boats, a serenade everytime we passed close enough. You could see that gal really blush!

THE FISH AND GAME Commission recently passed the mammal hunting regulations for the 1974-75 seasons. The hunting regulations booklets should be out soon. LAGUNA SECA SPRINTS

Marin Teams Competing

Three Marin auto racing teams will be among those represented in the Laguna Seca Sprints tomorrow and Sunday at Laguna Seca Raceway in Monterey.

Joe Huffaker's Terra Linda-based team, Pollard Racing of Novato and Mufflers Unlimited of San Rafael will run in the Sports Car Club of America road races beginning at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow and 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

The Huffaker team will be led by drivers Lee Mueller and Terry Visger. Visger of San Rafael will drive the team MGB while Mueller of Lynwood will drive a Jensen-Healey.

Visger, 25, is in his fourth year of racing. In 1973, he won at Willow Springs and at the Nationals in Kent, Wash.

Mueller began a successful defense of his 1973 National Championship in the Huffaker Jensen-Healey with a 45-second win at Sears Point Raceway in April.

Winning the 1973 title at Atlanta capped a successful year for Lee. He won a pair of races with the Jensen-Healey and six in the MGB, including the Olympia Sprints at Laguna Seca last June.

This year, Mueller, 31, will be driving the Healey. Mueller is a two-time national champion, earning his first crown in 1969 with a Triumph Spitfire. Lee has been driving for Huffaker for two years, earning Northern Pacific title in E Production both years while accumulating 14 victories.

Drivers Pat Casey and Mario Gardini will represent Mufflers Unlimited. Casey will drive an MG Midget, Gardini a Volvo sedan. Both are second-year drivers.

Casey graduated from the Sports Car Club driving school at Sears Point International Raceway. He finished third at the Laguna Seca sprints in November.

Kentfield's Tom Crowther and Novato's Bill Van Horn will drive for Pollard Racing, a division of Donald Pollard Associates.

Crowther will drive the March 722 Formula B, Van Horn the Polestar DP741C Sports Racer. Crowther has driven in Formula Fords for five years and finished fourth in the American Road Race of Champions at Atlanta in 1972.

Former "C" Sedan driver Van Horn will drive a Pollard-designed car. The car has the new advanced BDA four valve engine from Great Britain.

Wimbledon Match Won By Ashe

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Eighth-seeded Arthur Ashe of Miami, Fla., managed to gain the third round of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships today before rain dismayed 23,000 spectators by interrupting play once again.

Using his big serve to best advantage on grass slick from three days of on-again, off-again rain, Ashe whipped Teimuraz Kalkulia of the Soviet Union, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

Third seeded Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., shook his head in disgust as the rain stopped him just when he had broken service against big Phil Dent of Australia in the second set.

Dent took the first set 7-5. Play resumed today with the fifth-ranking Australian leading the second set 4-3. Before rain stopped the match last night Connors twice had dropped his own service and broken through Dent once.

Today Dent, scoring repeatedly with his forehand on Connors second service, got the winning break to 6-5 on a blasting cross-court forehand. He served an ace to advantage point in the final game and at the first set point dropped a slice over the net.

They broke each other's services to open the second set but Connors was improving with every game when Dent double-faulted at 30-40 to drop his service and give Connors a 4-2 lead.

Wall Street Sags As Interest Rates Rise

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market went into a broad retreat today as interest rates continued to climb. Trading, however, remained relatively slow.

Bank of America and First National City Bank of New York, the country's No. 1 and No. 2 banks, respectively, raised their prime rate to 11 ¾ per cent, following the lead of several smaller banks. The prime is charged key corporate customers.

The interest rate question has distressed investors for months. Many have retreated to the sidelines, as indicated by the lack of volume.

There are few signs rates will lower. Another discouraging factor, according to analysts, was a report late yesterday by the federal Reserve Board showing industrial and corporate loan demands at leading New York banks rose $551 million last week.

Prices were lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Combined Communications was the most active issue, off 1 ½ at 7 ¼ on 7,500 shares. Philippine Long Distance Telephone was second, up ⅛ at 6 on 6,100 shares. RB Industries tied with Philippine, unchanged at 6 on 6,100 shares.

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at 472.5 cents per fine ounce up 7.5 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at 472.5 up 7.5 cents and fabricated silver at 484.3 up 7.7 cents.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Mineral Firm's Future Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. About a year ago, I bought 200 shares of International Minerals & Chemical (NYSE) at 24. Personally, I like the stock for the long term. What is your opinion? — H.F.

A. Very much in agreement with yours — I think the stock has above average two-to-five years potential. IGL is a major producer of agricultural chemicals — potash and phosphate rock, two of the three major ingredients in fertilizers. Recently, a 38 per cent interest has been acquired in Commercial Solvents, a primary supplier of nitrogen, the third component in fertilizers.

With demand for fertilizers, which accounts for the bulk of International's profits, soaring worldwide, IGL shares should continue to outperform the market. The shares are currently trading about 75 per cent above their 1973 low vs. + 10 per cent for the Dow Industrial Average.

Some long-term caution is advisable, however, despite predictions of global famine. This is a highly cyclical industry where glut and drought prevail. In the present scarcity atmosphere, the major fertilizer companies are all in the throes of major capacity expansion programs, a situation which eventually could lead to a glut situation. For the next few years, however, IGL should prove to be a rewarding holding for long-term growth.

Q. With interest rates on government securities at an all-time high, why are my shares in Fund for U.S. Government Securities down from $10.80 in 1971 to about $9.50 at present ? W.O.

A. For the very reason you have given. When interest rates rise, the trading price of older debt issues bearing lower coupon rates goes down. Theoretically, a bond bought at $1,000, bearing a 7 per cent interest rate, would drop on the resale market to $875 if similar new bonds were offered at 8 per cent. Thus, at the lower price, the older bond would yield 8 per cent, equivalent to the new higher interest rate level. This fund invests exclusively in Treasury and government agency paper where safety level is high while yield is slightly below that of lower grade debt securities. Presumably, the net asset value of these shares will rise as interest rates ease.

Fireman's Fund Discloses It Has Not Signed Pact For Cafeteria

Manning's Inc. does not have the cafeteria concession in the new Fireman's Fund computer center which is under construction at Lucas Valley Road and Highway 101, north of San Rafael.

The report in this column Wednesday that Manning's would operate the cafeteria in the new computer center was based on misinformation from a public relations spokesman at Mannings.

The fact is that Fireman's Fund plans to call for bids within 60 days, and no contract has been signed with Manning's or anyone else.

Bradley Palmer, senior vice president at Fireman's Fund, explained it this way: Manning's has operated cafeterias in Fireman's Fund offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles for several years. "We're not dissatisfied with Manning's," said Palmer. "We just felt it was time to review the bidding. It's very possible Manning's will get the contract but they certainly are not signed up yet. We are calling for bids, and it's an honest call for bids." Palmer stressed that there has been no prior commitment to Manning's or to any other firm.

Palmer said he is hopeful that Fireman's Fund can move most of the personnel into the new building by Christmas this year, although the computer equipment will not be installed until after next March.

Ross

Dort

DANIEL C. ROSS of Mill Valley has been named vice president, marketing, of Woodruff Construction Co., a real estate development firm based in Burlingame. President Jack Woodruff announced the promotion.

Ross joined the company in 1971 as marketing manager and has been responsible for leasing programs at two office complexes developed by Woodruff in Burlingame. He was previously with Grubb & Ellis in commercial leasing.

HOWARD S. DORT of Novato was appointed assistant vice president in Crocker Bank's real estate loan administration, San Francisco.

Dort is a 12-year veteran with Crocker Bank and has served in real estate capacities with various offices in the Bay Area. He is secretary-treasurer of the Golden Gate Chapter 66 of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

DOWNTOWN SEWING Center is the name of a new Singer franchise store that has just opened in San Rafael at 714 C Street, suite 6, in a building near the Seven-Eleven Store.

The sewing center, which sells and services Singer machines and vacuum cleaners, is owned by Leonard Hunt of Petaluma and Robert Laakso of Fremont, with 24 years of combined experience. Hunt worked for the past five years as store manager of the Singer Company store at Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, while Laakso was district manager for Singer in the East Bay for the past seven years.

Downtown Sewing Center is open Monday through Saturday. Hunt said the present location at 714 C Street is temporary, and he hopes to move to a permanent site on Second Street about August.

WASH TUB COIN Laundry at 1765 Grant Avenue, corner of Seventh, in Novato will continue unchanged under new owners, who take over next Monday.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Assembly Backs DA Pension Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation to increase retirement benefits for county prosecuting attorneys won approval of the Assembly yesterday despite objections it would "open the floodgates" to all other categories of public employees.

The Assembly, knocking out measures rapidly as the five-week recess approached at the end of this week, also voted to raise salaries of certain public employees in Ventura County and in the San Jose-Milpitas Judicial court district.

The pension bill was introduced by Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond. He said the District Attorneys's Association, a registered lobby group, requested it in order to slow down the turnover of young lawyers who take prosecutor's jobs.

Knox said the new prosecutors, whose average tenure is 2.7 years in Los Angeles County, cost that county $2 million a year in on-the-job training. Then they move into private practices.

He said higher salaries cannot be used to entice them into remaining prosecutors longer, and the only way is better retirement benefits.

Technically, the bill would reclassify county prosecuting attorneys as "safety members," because of the hazardous nature of their work, retire earlier with generally better terms than other public employes at the same pay levels.

But Assemblyman Edwin Z'berg, D-Sacramento, said prosecutors have no more right to that distinction than lifeguards and coronors, for whom he said similar legislation has been rejected.

"It's a very excellent, very sweet type of retirement," Z'berg said. "Why not give everybody in the state safety member status? Another opponent, Assemblyman Newton Russell, R-Tujunga, said the bill "would open the floodgates."

But the Assembly voted 45-23, sending the bill to the Senate.

TUITION

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Legislature would take over tuition and fee setting duties at the University of California from the board of regents under a proposal to go on the November ballot.

Final legislative approval came with a 31-5 Senate vote yesterday. It would go into effect if approved by a majority of the voters.

The author of the bill was Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose. It was backed by the Joint Committee on the Master Plan for Higher Education.

12-YEAR TERMS

SACRAMENTO (AP) — University of California regents would serve 12-year instead of 16-year terms under a constitutional amendment proposal to be on the November ballot.

The proposal was placed on the ballot yesterday by a 27-1 vote of the state Senate.

It would also allow a faculty member and a student to join the board as full voting members.

The Senate granted its approval, concurring in Assembly amendments, after the author, Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento, said he supported making the student and faculty representatives voting members with one-year terms.

SMOKING

SACRAMENTO (AP) — High school students could legally smoke on campus under legislation approved by the Assembly.

An opponent, Assemblyman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, called the bill "really one of the giant cop-outs of all times" because it would put schools in the position of trying to teach that smoking is bad, and permitting it too.

The bill, by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, won a bare minimum 41-34 approval yesterday and went back to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

Backers said many high school students smoke anyway, creating disciplinary problems.

The measure would permit school districts to adopt rules permitting smoking. But smoking would not be allowed for minor students whose parents object.

SIGNATURES

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill has been sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan to allow a specified number of signatures to substitute for a filing fee for political candidates.

A 68-1 Assembly vote approved a Senate-Assembly conference committee report on the bill by Ray Gonzales, D-Bakersfield, sending it to Reagan. Gonzales said the Senate also approved the report yesterday.

Candidates for the California Assembly would need 1,500 signatures and state Senate and congressional candidates would need 3,000 signatures under his bill.

Candidates running for statewide office would need 10,000 signatures.

ANTIPOLLUTION

SACRAMENTO (AP) — New priorities would be set for the state's antipollution financing agency under a bill that has been sent to the Senate.

Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, said his bill was aimed at refining a ballot measure voters approved in 1972. That measure aimed to give firms financial assistance in meeting antipollution laws.

Under the bill passed by the Assembly yesterday, first priority would be given to firms facing government deadlines requiring correction of existing pollution problems.

Second priority would be given to projects necessary to comply with federal, state or local environmental plans. Plans in this category would not have a set deadline.

The 1972 measure gave the California Pollution Control Financing Authority $200 million in bond monies to dispense, and Knox said the agency had spent most of that amount.

Wyeth Feuding With His Yankee Neighbors

CUSHING, Maine (UPI) — The tranquillity of "Christina's World" was shattered this week by a dispute between artist Andrew Wyeth and the townsfolk he made famous in hundreds of paintings and sketches.

The rancor may drive the artist and his wife out of town.

Townspeople claim that the famous Olson farmhouse, where the polio-crippled heroine of the beloved American painting spent her life, has generated intolerable amounts of tourist traffic, caused sanitation problems and escalated land values.

"Frankly, most of us could care less whether they stay or not," one town official said.

Wyeth, a White House favorite in the Camelot days of Jack and Jackie Kennedy, and his wife, Betsy, are bitter against the town. They say there has been lack of support for Wyeth's projects, includingone launched jointly with movie producer and art collector Joseph E. Levine, to turn the grey clapboard structure into a museum to house Wyeth's works.

"I need to be able to work in peace," Wyeth said, "and there is no peace for me here.

"I will probably leave Maine entirely and never come back," Wyeth said. "There is a great deal of contention here and it is not conducive to my creative effort."

Years ago, the old house was used as a tavern, kept for the crews of clipper ships that came to Maine from Newfoundland, but in 1948 the house became known to the world as the enigmatic goal of the crippled girl crawling through a desolate field.

Natives resent the fuss and uproar Wyeth has created with his and Levine's work to turn the Olson place into a museum, which opened to the public in 1971.

"The traffic was considerable and there was a lot of litter," said June Champlin, a Cushing resident Thursday.

"If I lived on Hathorne Point I would object to 15,000 people driving by my house. People were littering and there were no toilet facilities," Champlin said.

I don't know of anyone who has been rude or discourteous to the Wyeths," Champlin said.

"Why, Cushing people even protect Mr. Wyeth," he said. "The joke around here is that when the tourists ask where Andrew Wyeth lives you say, 'You can't get there from here;' but speaking for myself I don't think the town needs anyone here that doesn't want to be here."

A town official who asked not to be identified said she believes it is the residents of Hathorne Point, a high promontory overlooking the St. George River, who are mainly responsible for the Wyeths' bitterness.

"It's been blown up to the point where everybody in Cushing doesn't want the Wyeths," the official said. "Frankly, most of us couldn't care less whether they stay or not. Their presence in the town has increased the land values, though, and a lot of rich people have built homes near the Olson place.

"Some of those houses down on the Point cost $70,000 or $80,000—and they don't like the litter and the traffic," the official said.

Betsy Wyeth said she had a hard time convincing her husband to come back to Cushing this summer, and that they are thinking of leaving for good. The Wyeths spend their winters in Chadds Ford, Pa., where Wyeth has painted the landscape extensively.

"There was incredible bitterness in the community, and the important thing is that no one here came forward and supported us," Mrs. Wyeth said.

"She has asked for no support and what kind of support does she want anyway?" the town official said. "I really don't know what she means."

The Olson house was closed last summer because of all the complaints, and Wyeth's work was stored in another museum near here.

Wyeth said Waterloo Village, a recreated pre-Revolutionary town near Stanhope, N.J. had expressed interest in acquiring the Olson house. Levine, who bought the property in 1969 to save it from developers who wanted to build 25 ranch houses o the property, said he would not be opposed to moving it.

Wyeth said he thinks his leaving Maine and the moving of the house may be the only solution.

"I don't enjoy feeling that people are bothered and upset because of something I've done," Wyeth said.

"I may move to an island out to sea or I may go to Europe for a while.

"I just don't know—the whole thing is very unfortunate."

Soviets Claim Trees Are Efficient Smog Battlers

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The Soviet Union says it is planting trees around urban and industrial areas as a means of coping with air pollution.

In a statement released by the Soviet Union's pavilion at Expo '74 yesterday the Russians said studies have revealed trees are capable of "not only spotting harmful pollutants in the air but of rendering them harmless by assimilating and accumulating them."

The release, quoting Victor Tarabin of the Donetsk Botanical Gardens of the Ukrainian Academy of Sciences, said experiments have shown trees and other vegetation on an area of two and a half acres can absorb as much as 25 to 30 tons of dust in one summer.

It also said during a single growing season plants on one acre can accumulate as much as 220 pounds of metals and assimilate and "render harmless" some 600 to 800 pounds of toxic gases.

The statement said, in addition to filtering the air, vegetation helps maintain the gaseous composition of the atmosphere.

It said during the growing season, plants on an area of one acre assimilate from four to six tons of carbon dioxide and produce from three to five tons of oxygen.

However, the statement said, planning must be done in deciding what types of vegetation to use in what areas because different trees react in different ways to air pollution.

It said chestnut trees best store iron, aluminum and titanium, while maple trees handle manganese, lead and sulphur best.

The statement said, while Soviet scientists consider trees an effective measure for countering air pollution, it is only "temporary" while they work out solutions to halting air pollution at emission sources.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Mother Should Return To The Doctor Who Did Her Surgery

Mrs. L. W. from Chicago writes: "Fourteen years ago, Mother, who is now 87, had facial surgery for tic douloureux. Recently there has been a partial return of the pain near the nose. And if the lip is touched, it hurts. Could something be done to give her some relief?"

Take your mother back to the surgeon who operated on her 14 years ago, if he is still in practice. Some of the nerve fibers may have regenerated and relief could be obtained by cutting them. However, he will probably take her age into consideration and advise medical treatment.

PAINKILLERS MIGHT offer temporary relief, because tic douloureux (trigeminal neuralgia) tends to come and go. Perhaps he will recommend one of the anticonvulsant drugs, such as diphenylhydantion or carbamazepine, which are made to order for elderly people with true trigeminal neuralgia.

This type of neuralgia stems from the trigeminal nerve of the face. Involved is a sensory nerve that is divided into three branches. The upper branch is responsible for sensations in the forehead; the lower branch for the mouth and lower jaw, and the middle branch for parts of the face between these two areas.

One, two, or all of the branches may be involved. Victims of this distressing condition experience sudden bouts of sharp, stabbing pain in the facial zones served by one or more branches of the trigeminal nerve. Stimulation of certain supersensitive zones on the face usually triggers the bouts.

EVEN A slight touch to the area may precipitate an attack. Biting, chewing, swallowing, washing, talking, sneezing, laughing, or yawning can do the same. When the nerve is in its sensitive stage, the victim may be afraid to eat, shave, wash the face or do anything else, lest it bring on the horrible pain.

Although the distress is not constant, it comes in a series of high intensity jabs lasting up to 30 seconds and may continue for several hours. Weeks or months later, the attacks subside completely, only to return in the near future.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his colunmn. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

HEART CAUTERIZED

O. A. B. writes: My doctor has me scheduled for cauterization of my heart. What does this procedure involve?

REPLY

This operation is done to improve the circulation to the heart muscle in persons suffering from severe angina pectoris. The chest wall is opened and powder is inserted into the sac that surrounds the organ. The ensuing irritation produces adhesions between the sac and the outer wall of the heart. The blood vessels that form in these adhesions are said to serve as a new source of nourishment for the cardiac muscle. This operation has been superseded by coronary bypass procedures that bring much more blood to the ailing heart muscle.

RETINAL ARTERIES

O. B. writes: Could hardening of the arteries be responsible for failing vision in an older person?

REPLY

Yes, if hemorrhages develop in thickened retinal arteries.

Booster Buttons Help Bring Show

The Fourth of July Committee, operating with an increased budget with the return of fireworks this year, receives the funds necessary from the Town of Corte Madera, City of Larkspur and County of Marin as well as private and commercial donations.

Additionally this year, two fund raisers, the "Rose Bowl" and Booster Buttons were undertaken so that each resident may personally share in this traditional community event.

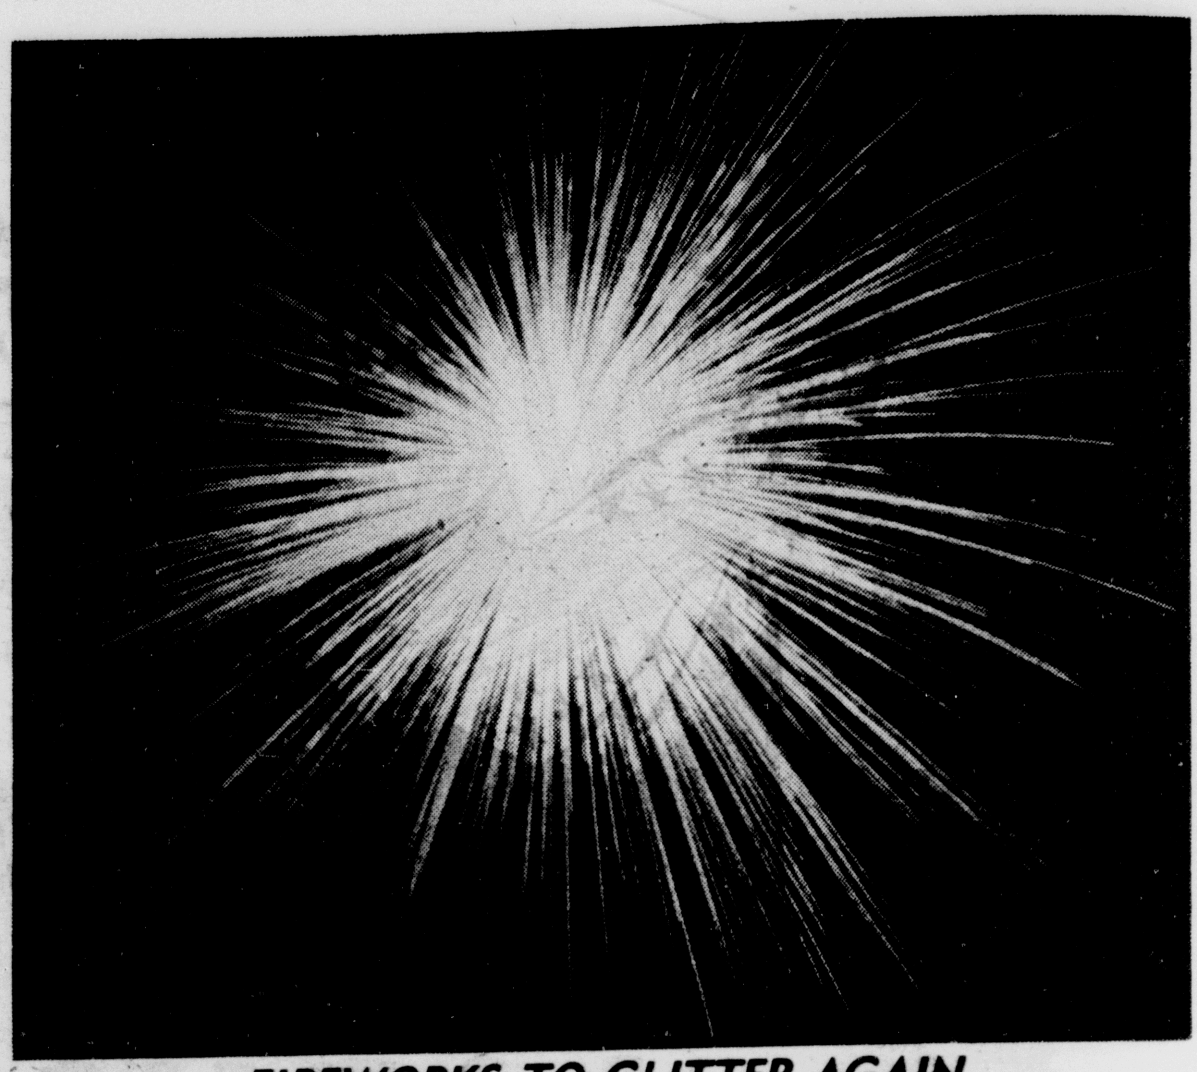
Monies received support the parade, entertainment, fireworks and other expenses of the two day festivities.

The Fourth of July Booster Buttons will be available at the Corte Madera Shopping Center, Alpha Beta Center and Bon Air Center tomorrow at 50 cents each.

Free programs will also be distributed.

Shaky Schools

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — As of early 1974, the state Department of Education said there were 1,258 public school buildings across California that were earthquake unsafe. The department also estimated it would cost at least $514.9 million to bring them up to state standards.



FIREWORKS TO GLITTER AGAIN

The traditional fireworks that have made the annual Corte Madera-Larkspur Fourth of July celebration a Bay Area byword will glow again Thursday evening over the waterfront of eastern Corte Madera. Special parking will be provided in the Corte Madera Center parking lots, and along San Clemente Drive and Frontage Road east of Highway 101.

Spectacular Fireworks Due Thursday Over Twin Cities

Once again, a spectacular fireworks display will top off a full day's events at the traditional Larkspur-Corte Madera's Fourth of July Celebration.

A group, Fans of Fireworks, raised much of the funds needed at the very successful "Rose Bowl Revisited" dance in May.

Dewey Holton, pyrotechnician of the Thunderbolt Fireworks Co. of San Francisco, promises a grand assortment of large shells visible over a much greater area than previous years. Holton has been responsible for past shows at the California State Fair, various county fairs and until this year, the familiar bursts at the Coliseum with the Oakland A's.

The site for the fireworks show this year was chosen because of its large viewing area — many residents of Corte Madera, Larkspur and Greenbrae will be able to enjoy the show

FUNNY FIREMEN TO ROLL AGAIN

The lovingly refurbished antique engine of the Larkspur Volunteer Fire Department, manned by intrepid smoke-eaters in red flannel, will bring the usual quota of laughs to the giant Twin Cities parade over the Independence Day holiday. Driver Jim Niven waits impatiently for Dale Eubanks to crank 'er up, and Dick Kohler stands by to swing aboard.

from their homes. For those who must travel for a view, suggested sites are: Corte Madera Shopping Center (enter via Tamalpais and Madera Boulevards from south, Madera Boulevard from north), San Clemente drive will be used for parking only (enter via Paradise Drive); Frontage Road also parking only (enter via Paradise Drive - Tamalpais intersection only, exit north only. Police will direct traffic to available space in these areas.

Officers have warned that driveways and roads remain open, nor should anyone go onto the marsh for a closer look and ditches. (Remember, all private fireworks are illegal, fire officials warned. This rule will be enforced to protect it from fire and trampling; also to protect spectators from fallout and hidden holes

Ballet, Music Aplenty Slated For The Fourth

Angelika Gafni's children's ballet class will start Thursday's program of diverse entertainment in the Corte Madera Town Park when they perform "Peter and the Wolf" at 10 a.m. These children are part of the Corte Madera Recreation Department program.

Following the ballerinas will be Bob Elkjer's Jazz Quartet from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Elger plays piano and trumpet; Bill Gwynee the bass and tuba; Dan Nichols, percussion; and Joe Alessi, piano, trombone and drum.

Flamenco music and dancing by El Cuadro will follow from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Raquel Lopez and Kalisha Flores dance while Nino Felipe, Jorge and Agustin Quintero sing and play guitar in a program of Andalucian folk music.

The mood will switch from Spanish to American Swing at 12:30 p.m. with a concert by the "Tuesday Group". This band originated with a small group of "old pros" who enjoyed getting together for an evening of playing "their kind of music". Their ranks have grown to 18 members with the return to popularity of music of the 1940's including several young people along with the not-so-young original group.

An hour of Dixieland by the Bayou Boogie Band at 1:30 p.m. will follow. Rich Newman, Tom Burke, Paul Leighton, Terry Pasquale, Steve Bergman, Mac Kelley and Bill Gwynne will entertain until time to get a good viewing spot for the parade.

Strolling clowns, musicians and dancers will circulate throughout the Park between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. entertaining the artists who will be displaying their paintings and crafts as well as all the spectators.

The children will enjoy a wide range of activities planned for them by the staff of the recreation department. Included are glue-in, painting, penny carnival, a treasure hunt at 12:30, Relay races at 1 p.m. Water balloon toss at 1:30 and a tug of war at 2 p.m. all at the Corte Madera Town Park.

Meanwhile in the Alpha Beta Center in Larkspur the Larkspur Police Officers Association will host a watermelon eating contest at 11 a.m. and the Dunk-a-cop tank at 11:30 a.m.

The children will be able to have a free ride on the cable car that will run between Larkspur and Corte Madera all day unti parade time.

Whence A Name

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — The Nittany Lion, Penn State's athletic symbol chosen by the student body in 1906, is a mountain lion once said to have roamed the mountains in central Pennsylvania where the university is located. The word "nittany" evolved from Nita-Nee, the name of a legendary Indian maiden who fell in love with a trader who was imprisoned and left to die in Penn's Cave.

The first of thirteen indoor and outdoor courts at our new tennis Club in Larkspur will be available next week.

And coming shortly thereafter: indoor/outdoor swimming pool, badminton, volleyball, basketball, saunas, lockers, lounge, bar and more.

Construction began in early May and thirty days later we had reached our quota of Charter Members. Initiation fees were then increased.

Initiation fees must be raised again when the membership reaches 450. But for the approximately 125 new members who join now the rate will remain $1150 for single memberships, $1650 for families. A saving over the impending fee of more than 20%.

A 20% deposit will hold your membership at the existing rate.

We invite you to call the club house now for an application: 924-6226. Or return the enclosed coupon with your deposit.

Memorial Drives Recall Churchill

LONDON (UPI) — "This is my place," said Sir Winston Churchill, tapping the earth with his cane. And there in the village churchyard of Bladen lies the man who could have rested among the immortals in Westminster Abbey.

Since his death in 1965 in his 91st year tens of thousands of people from all over the world have journeyed to St. Martin's church to pay their respects — and give their thanks — to Britain's World War II Prime Minister.

This year the little Oxfordshire village expects many more thousands, for it is the centenary of Sir Winston's birth in the great palace of Blenheim across a broad meadow from where he is buried.

In death, Sir Winston chose to join his family. In adjoining graves lie his brilliant, tragic father, Lord Randolph Churchill, and his beautiful American mother, Jennie Jerome.

There is space when the time comes for Baroness Spencer Churchill, his widow, who spent her 89th birthday last month launching the season of exhibitions, appeals and other events that will mark her husband's anniversary.

Lady Churchill, with many of her husbands wartime companions around her in addition to Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other politicians and statesmen, donated the first pound sterling of a hoped for one million pounds ($2.4 million) to complete two memorials to Sir Winston. Aim of the drive is to collect "one million pounds from one million people." Queen Mother Elizabeth was among early one-pound contributors.

One memorial is the great archive of Churchillian and other important contemporary documents at Churchill College in Cambridge. The other is for a fund which finances research and other activities for students.

New Club Starts For Magicians

Management of the Hobby Tree Inc. store in the Corte Madera Center has announced that a charter will be granted by the Society of American Magicians for a new Marin Magicians' Assembly and Club, at the SAM's annual convention in Boston in July.

Anyone 17 years and older who wishes to become Charter Members in this new Assembly of the world's oldest Magic Society may obtain membership applications at the HOBBY TREE.

Youngsters between the ages of 14 and 17 may become charter associate members.

Membership in SAM is $10 per year with an initiation fee of $5. Membership includes a subscription to the Society's fantastic monthly magazine "M-U-M" (which stands for "Magic-Unity-Might").

Milo Illich, president of the HOBBY TREE, and a onetime magician himself, said that the Marin Magician's Assembly will operate totally independently from the Hobby Tree, and

Trespassing Shoppers Nabbed In Canal

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — The Canal Zone customs division says 129 trespassers have been arrested thus far this year in Panama Canal retail stores, which prices are considerably lower than in neighboring Panama.

Most of those arrested were taken into the retail stores by persons holding Canal Zone purchase-authority cards issued by the Canal Zone government or the U.S. armed forces. Fines of up to $50 were levied against the trespassers.

New Club Starts For Magicians

that sponsoring this new assembly was in answer to requests of customers to have a magic club of their own here in Marin.

The store will, however, furnish a meeting space in its "Tree Top Room" for as long as the assembly chooses to meet there or until the assembly outgrows the space.

Some 14 persons have already joined. And as soon as the approved charter is received, a general meeting will be called to organize and elect officers.

The Hobby Tree is the only store in Marin that carries magic along with some 22,000 arts, craft, model items and books. You may pick up an application by stopping by the store located on the center mall in the Corte Madera Shopping Center next to Wards and on the other side of the same building it shares with Radio Shack.

The Hobby Tree opens six days a week at 10 a.m. and closes at 6 p.m., except that evening hours are extended to 9 p.m. on Wednesdays and Fridays and Sunday hours are from 11 to 5.

Competition, Oil Crisis Hamper Tourism In Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Tourism in Kenya fell off last year, with fewer Americans West Germans and Britons visiting the country.

Tourism Ministry figures just released here show that 388,100 tourists visited Kenya last year.

Unsettled monetary and economic conditions prevailing throughout 1973 and the increasing competitiveness of new tourist areas elsewhere in the world were seen as factors probably responsible for the drop.

The ministry said the oil crisis and increasing air fares would affect tourism still further this year.

Just Quick Work

PARIS (UPI) — The French Academy, ploughing through its decades-long task of producing a new standard dictionary, held a weekly meeting and defined nine words. The Academicians have reached the Ds.

RECAPTURING 1950S MUSIC

Culminating the activities on Wednesday evening will be a street dance in the east parking lot of the Corte Madera Town Park. Featured will be the band of Kid Kahoutek and the Shooting Stars. Dancing will be from 8 to 11 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Teacher Perils Are Pointed Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — Teaching has its perils, says Frank Ward, graduate student at the University of Rochester Department of Psychology.

He offers some tongue-in-cheek advice to novice college instructors. The first problem he tackled: the situation involving a student throwing up during the teacher's first lecture.

Plenty Of Food, Drink For Fete

Pancakes, sausages, beverage and the trimmings will start the day Thursday in the Corte Madera Town Park when the Italian Athletic Club of Marin and Central Marin Babe Ruth League team up. Tickets are available for $1.50 from Babe Ruth players or at the breakfast. It will be served from 8:30 to noon.

The Larkspur Lions Club will serve a "Continental Breakfast" in the Alpha Beta Center from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Other refreshments will be available all day.

Hot dogs, hamburgers, meat balls, homemade candy and cookies, snow cones, watermelon, ice cream, soda pop and beer will be available all day for lunch and snacking at East End of Corte Madera Town Park.

A chicken barbeque will be offered by the Corte Madera Lions Club at the Rec Center for $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Watermelon, corn, cole slaw, a roll and coffee are included on the menu.

Whatshisname?

MT. PROSPECT, Ill. (AP) — The name of O. B. Enebo, a sales representative for Addressograph Multigraph Corp. here, is very unusual. Enebo's monicker is a palindrome — it reads the same frontwards and backwards.

Lantern's Inventor Is Still A Dark Mystery

FAIR LAWN, N.J. (AP) — No one knows how long lanterns have been sheltering lights, say researchers at home lighting institute here.

Alexis of Thureii, a 2nd Century Greek, was in the dark when he wrote, "Whoever invented the lantern was certainly very careful of his hands" — referring to sparks and hot pitch which were hazards of the torch.

In the 19th Century the kerosene chimney lantern was developed, with a fluted cylindrical glass tube that created a draft from bottom to top, giving more oxygen for a brighter flame. And today homeowners achieve the welcoming effects of gaslight through electricity, in hurricane light bulbs designed for use outdoors, as post lights and porch lights.

The original soundings of the mouth of the Mississippi River indicated a depth of from 10 to 15 feet in 1720s.

Should You Try No-Lead In Your Car?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Should you buy no-lead gasoline for your car?

The question is pertinent because many service stations are already offering such gas. By July 1, under new federal regulations, it should be available to motorists in about 110,000 stations across the country.

That figures out to about two in every three stations in an area, and roughly every other station in rural sections, according to estimates from the Environmental Protection Agency.

Stations are being required to carry the gas because 1975 model cars — which will start appearing in showrooms in September — won't run on anything else without destroying their expensive new exhaust control devices. To force the issue, these new cars will be equipped with smaller necks in the intake line under the gas cap which will fit only narrow-neck nozzles on the new no-lead gas pumps.

But the new nozzles obviously will fit older cars with the standard intakes, so the question comes back to whether the driver should try no-lead gas.

The answer is that you can, in general, if your car is a 1971 model or later, up through the current '74 models. Earlier models have high compression engines requiring gasoline with more octane than the no-lead gas has.

Even that is not a hard and fast rule, however. Chrysler turned out some models in 1971 and 1972 which required an occasional tank of leaded gas to keep the engine running properly. In addition, cars tend to develop their own octane appetites with prolonged use.

"Regular" gas contains lead, incidentally, though not as much as "premium." The octane rating of most no-lead gasoline will be about 87 under the formula now being used on those stickers placed on the face of gas pumps. That level of octane, in general, is not sufficient for pre-'71 model cars.
